EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

PRESIDENT GARFIELD'S Cabinet is crowded already, and yet he has not begun on it himself.

JOHN KELLY is still searching for "fraud," and also for evidences of moral delinquencies on the part of the proprietor of the New York Herald.

JOHN I. DAVENPORT is obeying the order of General Garfield to "hunt the rascals down." He says he will bring the Chinese letter forgery home to the Democratic Committee.

THE Northern States give the Republican ticket a majority of between 500,000 and 600,000. Every official return coming in increases the Republican majorities in the North and decreases the Democratic majorities in the South.

GENERAL SCHOFIELD'S extraordinary "report," and his still more extraordinary course in the Whittaker case, has led to his removal from command at West Point. He will probably be sent to the Pacific coast, and General Pope will succeed him at West Point.

MR. CHARLES E. SMITH, editor of the Philadelphia Press, is seemingly annoyed by the statement that he is a candidate for Clerk of the House of Representatives. He says he is not a candidate for any position, and would like to see the man who started the rumor "shot on the spot."

THE Chicago Inter-Ocean pays a high compliment to Secretary Sherman, and declares "he stands the peer of any living man as a financier." It thinks it doubtful, however, if he will be willing to keep his place under the incoming administration, and insists that Ohio should see to it that he is returned to his old place in the Senate.

FLOPPERS from the Democratic to the Republican party are reported to be very numerous in Tennessee and some other Southern States. In view of the fact that there are a good many Federal offices in the South to be filled by the new administration, it may be remarked that the sincerity of these conversions is not nearly as evident as would have been the case if the change had been made before the election.

THE Democratic newspapers who published the forged Chinese letter on the eve of the election, with flaming headings and an editorial endorsement, are now exceedingly reticent on the subject. It has been shown that the perjured witnesses were paid by the National Democratic Committee for the part they acted in the miserable and desperate game, and some of them are justly booked for the penitentiary.

MR. W. L. SCOTT, of Barnum's Committee, is moved to observe: "The Republicans are trying to throw mud at us. They will find out hat the other side can throw mud before they get through." The Republicans found that out some time ago. Nobody questions your ability as a mud-heaver, Mr. Scott. You have demonstrated that. The mud which is falling on you and your companions now is merely your own filth coming back to its natural home; that is all. It would not stick to Garfield.

THE New York Tribune makes a suggestion for the benefit of those Democrats who wish to be gentlemen. It is this:

It is about time to quit insulting and befouling the American people. No Democratic politician or journal can make anything in that business. But when the Democratic politician or editor says that President Hayes is a fraud, or that General Garfield is a perjurer or bribe-taker, he no longer insults an individual. He insults the majority of the people of this country, and a very large majority of the people of the northern states.

A Dead Party.

The Democrats who are discussing the future of their party overlook the preliminary question whether the party is to have any future. New ideas, new issues, and new leadership might in some degrees change its relations to public opinion, of course. But to what end should anybody take the trouble to reconstruct a party so defeated and disgraced? Is it possible that intelligent Democrats can find no worthier object for their exertions? Is this worn-out, leaky, pest-ridden and filthy hulk the best craft that men can get, to put to sea in for another voyage? If so, they are to be pitied.

Not many men realize how far the Democratic party has separated itself from public sympathy and confidence. Men see that it has polled a very large vote; that a change of comparatively few votes in certain States would have enabled it to elect a President; and that it seemed to them not unlikely to succeed as late as September last. They do not realize how tremendous are the forces which that party has now arrayed against itself, to insure its overthrow in any real emergency. When the Democratic party became the defender of human slavery, that fact alone made it difficult thenceforth for that party to win a majority in any free State. Nor is the difficulty lessened as we get further away from the institution of slavery, which, with all its crimes, its horrors and its blunders, was deeply rooted in customs and laws. When the party resisted the war for suppression of rebellion, it created another powerful and permanent obstacle to its success. Every boy that grows up with a love of country, a pride in its great deeds, and a keen desire for its unity and glory, finds it hard to vote a Democratic ticket. Opposition to colored enfranchisement was another step which set firmly and forever against the Democratic party another powerful and rapidly growing part of the population. Next came hostility to specie resumption; a course which has forever alienated from the party the vast financial, industrial and material interests of the country. Henceforth, whenever there seems to be danger that this same old Democratic party may succeed, its record from 1873 to 1880 will be revived, and then will come a tremendous uprising for those who care for honest money, public faith, good wages, material progress and business prosperity.

As if all this were not enough, the Democratic party has made itself the foe of free and honest elections. Its conduct of elections at the South will now be fully disclosed. Ever since the plan of fraudulent voting and false counting was generally adopted in that section Democratic methods have been hidden from the light by Democratic majorities in Congress, and by false reports that the colored people willingly voted with that party in great numbers. The anxiety of the property-owners to get control of their local governments was commonly accepted as some excuse for the resort to many questionable measures. Now it will be known how far, with no such excuse whatever, the Democrats of the South have trampled upon the right of free and honest suffrage, and the disclosure will produce a most profound impression. With it will be taken the attempt to buy electoral votes in 1876, the attempt to steal the State of Maine in 1879, and the resort to revolutionary measures and threats in order to get the election laws repealed, and finally all the details of the infamous campaign of slander, forgery and perjury which has just closed. It is not possible that all these things can fail to convince upright, honest, truth-loving and freedom-loving men that the Democratic party has become dangerous to free institutions.

After each gigantic blunder and crime, Democratic leaders have tried to disavow the business, and consoled themselves with the hope that the thing would soon be forgotten. But the Nation absolutely refuses to drink the water of Lethe for Democratic convenience. Twenty-five years have not made free States of the Northwest forget the attempt to fasten slavery upon Kansas by fraud and bloodshed. Twenty years have not dulled the public ear to the crack of the slave-whip or the bay of the bloodhound. After sixteen years the ring of rifles and the shriek of shells are still heard, whenever the party that declared the war a failure attempts once more to strike down the men who suffered at Andersonville and Libby, and to exalt the men why made them suffer. Twelve years have not brought forgetfulness of the massacres and assassinations by which loyal Governments were overthrown by the White Leagues. Neither will twenty years more make public creditors and depositors in savings banks forget what party it was that proposed to repudiate solemn pledges of public faith; what party it was that attemped inflation and resisted resumption; or what party it was that sought to destroy the National banking system. These things, too, are going to be remembered as long as a Democratic party seeks to recover power. Nor will the past four years of Democratic fraud, bribery, cipher dispatches, false counting, tissue ballots, State stealing, slander, forgery and perjury ever be forgotten, so long as the party which has now made itself infamous by the use of dishonest methods still strives for honor and power.

The thing for sensible Democrats to do is to disband their party as soon as possible. The sooner it becomes certain that the dishonored and odious thing can never appear in another national contest, the more time there will be for the organization of a loyal and decent opposition party before the next election There are questions upon which the large proportion of Democratic voters honestly differ from the Republican voters. But no such question can ever get considered upon its merits while that public nuisance known as the Democratic party remains in existence.—N. Y. Tribune.

GOV. HOYT, in issuing his Thanksgiving proclamation, used the phrase, "A Christian Commonwealth."

The Hebrews of Philadelphia protested against the term as shutting them out from the participation in the public expression of gratitude to Almighty God, and cited their usefulness, patriotism and benevolence as a reason why no such invidious distinction should be made against them. Upon which Governor Hoyt altered the words to a "Commonwealth of Freemen." It appears to us that our Hebrew fellow-citizens had no ground for this protest, and that a little cool reflection on either side would have prevented their demanding a change from the Governor, and him from granting it. The State of Pennsylvania and the United States are Christian Commonwealths, and that not because the vast majority of inhabitants are Christians, but because they were founded on Christian laws and in the Christian spirit. It is not a question of numbers, nor of the belief of this man or that. If it is, and if the existence of a certain number of Hebrews among us forbids the name of Christian to the country, the existence of certain heathen and atheists among us should forbid us the right to recognize God by public Thanksgiving.

THE North will never consent to leave in the hands of the South the power to cast as many votes as it chooses and to count them as it wills. When the South consents to obey the law sectionalism will end, and not before.

GENERAL BUTLER is waiting for both parties to break up, and for the formation of a new one with him at its head. He is a patient man, and willing to wait, probably.

An Interesting Paper.

MR. F. B. THURBER, of the firm of H. K. & F. B. Thurber, of New York, will have a paper on "The Railroads and the People" in the December Scribner, which is said to present in a very forcible way some of the recent exposures of corruption in the great railroad monopolies of this country. He says:

"It is an open secret that the railroads furnish a large share of the money required to operate the machinery of our elections, and in all districts where political parties are closely matched, their money, on the side of the candidate who will promise to favor their interests, generally carries the day. They know no party, and consult no interests but their own, and, as a matter of course, the venal and less worthy element in our political life, under such a system as this, usually triumphs, and men who are too honest or to independent to bow to corporate will are so weighted in the race for political preferment that they seldom come to the front.

* * * *

"The railroad is the invention of the last half century; the tremendous development of corporate life, attended by the abuses of which the public complain, has occurred within this period, and largely within the last twenty-five years. Continue for another half-century the present power of corporations to tax the public, and we will have a moneyed aristocracy in this country such as world has never seen, and with it all the attendant phenomena of venal legislators and corruption in high places, which has caused the downfall of all the great republics of history.

WILL there never be an end to the Democratic endeavor to explain their defeat? They have ascribed it to Tilden's lukewarmness and Kelly's treachery, to Barnum's blunders and English's unpopularity, to Republican colonization and the Federal marshals, and still they remain just as much in ignorance as to what did it as the colored man was in regard to his misfortune. He was stooping over to get a drink from a creek, wholly ignorant of the presence of a miscnievous goat, and in a moment found himself sprawling in the water. When he crawled out and was asked how it happened, he answered: "I dunno, 'xactly, boss; but 'pears to me as if de shore kinder h'isted and frowed me." The Democrats had better give up the attempt to explain the defeat of their party, and conclude that the country just "h'isted and frowed" it.

THERE seems to be an abundance of Democrats who are able to construct a new platform, gauranteed to carry the party to victory four years hence. This is the same old delusion which has ruined the party for the past twenty years. Instead of resolving to make a record for honesty and capacity in the administration of affairs, and going before the country with a platform based on that, they construct the platform in advance, and try to fool the country into believing that they will live up to it hereafter. It is like trying to build a chimney by laying the topmost brick first.

BARNUM and Company are very quiet, and the inference is that they have concluded that their party cannot easily be injured any more at present. Perhaps, though, they are puzzled like the bad boy of whom a correspondent speaks. He has been caught in a lie, and persisted in denying that he had lied. "Don't you know," he was asked, "that you are telling another lie?" He hesitated a moment, and then said: "Well, how shall I fix it so that I ain't told one lie?"

THE periodical kerosene idiot is eclipsed. A feminine lunatic in New York State has been distinguishing herself by warming a cartridge of giant powder in her kitchen stove. Result—possibly not fatal, which is better luck than she had any right to expect. Query—why does the feminine mind run to such painful and ungraceful methods of suicide?

A FEW lively Republican quarrels would make the Democrats uncommonly happy; but the prospect is bad for any just now.

WASHINGTON.

Special Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 20, '80.

The counting being over, and the gains and losses of the late election having been figured up, it is found that the Republicans have gained so largely in the Senate, that the organization after March 4th, 1881, hangs upon the votes of Senator-elect Mahone of Virginia and Senator David Davis of Illinois. It is certain there will be 37 Republicans and 37 Democratic, unless Tennessee should elect an independent, which seems now probable. Then it would stand 35 Democrats and three Independents.

From Maine to California, the claims of the various candidates for Senatorial honors to fill the vacancies caused by expiration of the terms of one-third of the Senate after March 4th, 1881, are discussed and put forward.

In Maine, as successor to the venerable and able Senator Hamlin, the two most prominent candidates are Hon. W. B. Frye, sitting, and member elect from the second district, and the Hon. Eugene Hale, ex-member from the fifth district. It is almost certain that Colonel Frye will be the man.

Connecticut has two candidates in Hon. Joseph R. Hawley, sitting member from the first district, and ex-Postmaster-General Marshall Jewell. The chances for success are evenly divided. Either gentlemen will be an honor to the State.

In New York, among the numerous candidates may be mentioned Hon. Levi P. Morton, John H. Starin, and Frank Hiscock, present member of the House of Representatives, General George H. Sharpe, Thomas C. Platt, and Governor Cornell. It is admitted on all hands that Senator Conkling's wishes will be respected and his candidate chosen.

Hon. George M. Robeson, present, and member elect from the first district of New Jersey, will probably be chosen, there being no organized opposition to him.

Ex-Speaker Galusha A. Grow, and M. S. Quay, in Pennsylvania, are the candidates between whom the choice is said to lie. The latter has the Cameron influence, the former has the pledges of nearly votes enough to nominate him. Chances about equal.

Ohio has many good men who desire to sit in Senator Thurman's chair. Governor Foster, Stanley Mathews, Judge Taft, General Beatly, Secretary Sherman, and I know not how many others are pressing their claims. Neither of them will have a walk over. Either would well represent the Buckeye State.

Michigan is not wanting in good candidates. Ex-Governor Bagley, ex-Governor Baldwin, Governor Crossley, who will be ex-Governor after January first, 1881, and Hon. John S. Newberry, sitting member from the first district, are among the names that are being canvassed. It is admitted, even by his opponents, that Governor Bagley has earned and deserves the right to ask of his State the highest gift it can bestow upon him. The Michigan colony in Washington manifest great interest in the election, and almost to a man favor Gov. Bagley. They were surprised and disappointed that he was not sent here a year ago to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Chandler.

Hon. John C. New and Gen. Ben. Harrison are much talked of to succeed Senator McDonald. If General Harrison is called to President Garfield's Cabinent, the former will doubtless be elected. His State owes him a large debt of gratitude for the services rendered in the late campaign, which resulted in placing it among the galaxy of Republican States.

PHIL

THE Pittsburgh Christian Advocate of last week has a thoughtful and forcible editorial, evidently from the pen of Dr. Wheeler, on the recent elections. In recounting some of the reasons which led to the result, he mentions the conviction that has become fixed in the northern mind that the law conferring franchise upon the negro has been made of none effect by the various devices of murder, violence and fraud. The Doctor insists that "this condition must be removed before the North can consent that the results of the war are secure," and truthfully adds:

Should it take a quarter of a century, or four times a quarter, to establish the legal rights of the freedmen and all that logically grows out therefrom, the South may rest assured that all struggles necessary to that end will as assuredly be prosecuted as was the civil war till its object was secured, the preservation of the nation, and this, irrespective of what politicians may do or leave undone, irrespective of party sympathies and party platforms, and in contradiction to every adjustment to which injustice and unrighteousness may consent. Happy day for the nation, when high, holy justice shall shield the rights of the weakest citizens and a solid South and a solid North in opposition shall be no more!

As we predicted, the Bourbons of the Sixth district of Mississippi were equal to the emergency, and are going to return General Chalmers again to his stolen seat in Congress. Mr. Lynch was honestly elected, but 4,642 ballots cast for him were thrown out because there was an innocent little dash (——) between the sub-divisions of the ticket. The Philadelphia Times (Democrat) says:

The Democrats of the Sixth Mississippi district must be very simple, as well as very tricky, if they suppose for a moment that a Republican House of Representatives, or even a Democratic House with a small majority, would confirm in his seat a man whose title is so saturated with fraud. Chalmers may get on the roll of Clerk Adams, but he will not answer to his name very often after the appointment of the Committee on Privileges and Elections. When people say that there will be no colored man in the next Congress they forget Lynch.

THE invariable Saturday night murder presents a revolting picture of brutal debauchery. The wife was drunk when she was killed, and the husband was drunk when he killed her, still drunk when he sought out the police and gave himself up. As he represents it, it was simply a case of the customary wife-beating, unintentionally overdone. There were three children in this wretched home. They will not have lost a great deal when the law completes the orphanage which the father began.—N. Y. Tribune.

THE list of missing and dead in the Minnesota insane asylum fire counts up thirty-two persons, and it is feared that all who are missing are dead. The early estimates of loss were not far wrong, then. It was a frightful slaughter of helpless beings whom the State had taken under its protection. If the responsibility can be ascertained nothing should stand in the way of its full disclosure.

A Bit of Romance in Colorado.

The brigand style of some of the mountaineers is very attractive to the fancy of some of the young ladies from the eastern states, who are touring it through Colorado or are visiting there. One bright and pretty girl from the east fell violently in love with one of these rovers, and to gain favor in his eyes, and seem a little nearer his ideas, she purchased a fine broncho, a scarlet saddle-cloth, and over her handsome dark-green, gold-buttoned habit she wore a gold-mounted leather belt, to which was attached a sheathed knife with a guarded hilt. In the band of her Derby hat she wore a lighter knife that glistened when she rode. Attired in this brigandish habit she was happy, and openly expressed her admiration and love for this noted desperado. "He could and would protect a woman's honor with his very life," she lisped to the staunch fellow who corralled her tired bronchos. "Yes, and kill her, too, when she was in the way and vexed him, and that is what he has done more than once, as we all know, but we cannot prove it. He'll be lucky if he don't find himself made into a tassel by Mr. Lynch some bright midnight." The poor girl cried a little, then laid off her belt and knives, and with a deep sigh awoke from her bright dreams.

Poetry.

Three Portraits.

BY EDGAR FAWCETT.

I.—A REFORMER.

With tangled beard and rolling eye,
He longs for something to defy.

To-night, in dictorial state,
On marraze he will tulminate.

Next week, with oratoric hand,
He sweeps religion from the land.

But always his devotion hot
Befriends the workingman's low lot.

His little drudging, faded wife
Has clothed and fed him half her life.

And yet, (ah, solve it, ye who can!)
His heart bleeds for the workingman!

II.—AN OLD BEAU.

How cracked and poor his laughter rings!
How dulled his eye, once flashing warm!
But still a courtly pathos clings
About his bent and withered form.

To-night, as mirthful music swells,
With wrinkled cheek and locks of snow,
He meets the grandsons of the belles
He smiled on forty years ago!

We watch him here, and half believe
Our gaze may witness, while he prates,
Death, like a footman, touch his sleeves,
And tell him that the carriage waits.

III.—A GRUMBLER.

For him no statesman thinks aright,
No painter charms; no poet glows;
The lily is a shade too white,
Inadequately red the rose;
And every scheme by which men live
Is valueless and tentative.

Such disapproval he reveals
Of all accepted laws and plans,
One almost fancies that he feels
Angry at fate's restricting bans,
Because he cannot rule alone
Some private planet of his own!

The Way of the Wind.

"Why doth the East Wind always complain?—
Because he is married to the Rain.

"Why is the North Wind's breath so strong?—
He has wrestled with icebergs fierce and long.

"Why is the South Wind's step so light?—
Out of a sleeping land in flight.

"Why is the West Wind's touch aflame?—
Out of a sunset cloud he came."

Lying under a summer tree,
This is what Zephyr sang to me.

Zephyr, with flattering words and low,
Tells but half of the truth I know.

Four great boys in an ancient hall,
They grew up thinking their will was all.

Sweet Mother Nature, the dearest dame—
I fear her softness is much to blame—

Lovely and quiet, year out, year in,
Her soft white blanket she sits to spin:

Rose hued curtains and carpets green,
Broidered cushions of satin sheen.

Her guests are bidden, her house is fair—
Four white rovers have entrance there.

Never's an hour so still and sweet,
But may be broken by trambling feet:

But when from the rain they turn away,
Oh, who so gentle and blithe as they?

They rock the cradles in tall tree-tops,
They run with the tripping water-drops;

Daintily courting, they sigh and pine
Round the flower-ladies so pure and fine.

Well they love pleasure, but mischief best—
Too swift and subtle and strong for rest.

Up and down in the world they go,
And mock us with every voice we know.

They pipe to the dreamers at even song;
They mourn to the waters all night long.

Then down the chimney they shout and roar,
Shriek at the lattice and shake the door.

The old man, sighing, repeateth still,
"The will o' the wind is boyhood's will!

The boy, with wondering, silent lips,
Thinks of the sea and the wafted ships;

And each, in his dim heart longs to find
Out of his world the way of the wind.

Our Story Teller.

The Wrong Bride.

BY HELEN FOREST GRAVES.

Mrs. Smythe had been busy all day straightening pictures, dusting tiny alabaster statutes, arranging little bouquets of tea-rose buds and geranium leaves, in slender stemmed crystal vases, on velvet-draped brackets, and looping the pure muslin curtains back with fresh blue ribbons.

For Mrs. Smythe expected an honored guest to dinner that day—a great guest whom she had never yet beheld—her daughter in-law.

'So Paul is really married at last,' said Mrs. Gossipwell, who had come in to borrow the last number of a fashion magazine, and had made her prying way into a little drawing-room, which had been refurnished in blue and silver.

'Yes, Paul is married,' said Mrs. Smythe with dignity.

'It must be a dreadful shock to you,' groaned Mrs. Gossipwell, slyly watching the mother-in-law elect out of her little green-gray eyes.

'On the contrary,' said Mrs. Smythe, markedly, 'I am quite delighted at the idea of welcoming a new daughter!'

'Humph!' said Mrs. Gossipwell, 'rather sudden, wasn't it?'

'Not at all,' said Mrs. Smythe.

'You wasn't at the wedding?'

'Because I never can go anywhere, at this season of the year, on account of my horrid haycold,' said Mrs. Smythe, with spirit.

'I hope she'll be a comfort to you,' observed Mrs. Gossipwell, in a tone that plainly indicated, "But I don't believe anything of the sort.'

'I have not the least doubt of it, said Mrs. Smythe. 'Indeed, I can scarcely wait for the evening train to come in.'

Mrs. Gossipwell sniffed, and went away, annoyed that she could not goad Mrs. Smythe into adopting the regular mother-in-law spirit of spite and animosity.

'She needn't try to make me believe in all that sugared sweetness,' said she. 'It's every simper of it put on!'

But good Mrs. Gossipwell was mistaken, for once. Mrs. Paul Smythe, senior, was really and truly delighted that her son had at last taken to himself a wife, and was expecting the appearance of her new daughter-in-law with an almost nervous thrill of happy enthusiasm and blissful anticipation.

'If Paul is safe married at home,' she said, to herself, 'he will give up that wild idea of traveling in Egypt and hunting up the sources of the Nile, which has always kept me in a sort of terror. There is nothing like a sweet wife and a happy home for dispelling all these mad illusions!'

And, full half an hour before there was an earthly necessity for it, Mrs. Smythe called Michael, the hired man, to harness up the little gray pony and drive down to the depot to meet the newly-married couple.

'There's plenty of time, mum,' said Michael.

'But I wouldn't have you too late for the world,' said Mrs. Smythe, earnestly.

So Michael had the pleasure of waiting at the station what seemed to him an infinity of time before the train came in.

There was only one passenger who alighted—a stout young woman, in a green plaid dress, rather short in the skirts, and well covered by a huge red-and-black blanket shawl; a felt hat, with a scarlet plume; a green veil, and a pair of cotton gloves.

She stood still on the platform, staring at Michael. Michael, at the pony's head, stood staring at her.

'She's a queer looking bride,' said the honest Irishman, to himself. 'But here she is, and I'll have to hail her.'

He was just stepping forward, with his hand to the brim of his hat, when the lady herself took the initiative.

'I'm Mrs. Paul Smith,' said she.

'Smythe, ma'am,' said Michael, who was accustomed to pronunce it with a long 'i.'

'We call it Smith.' said the lady, brusquely. 'Did any of his folks come down here to meet me?'

'Madam sent the carriage for you,' said Michael. 'Please step in. I beg your pardon, but we expected Mr. Paul, too?'

'He ain't a-comin' till to-morrow,' said the bride, leaning comfortably back among the cushions. 'Drive on, you? I'm most froze!'

'Shall I take the checks, ma'am?' said Michael, growing more and more confused in his mind.

'Checks? What for?'

'For the baggage, ma'am,' explained Michael.

'There ain't no baggage,' said the bride.

Mrs. Smythe—Madam Smythe, as she liked to call herself now—was in a little blue-and-silver drawing-room, standing beside the bright anthracite fire, when the door opened, and the stout young woman walked in, with iron-ferruled umbrella and squeaking shoes.

'I'm Paul's wife!' said she.

Paul's wife! Madam Smythe stared as if she were struck dumb with amazement. This coarse, freckled-faced woman, with cotton gloves and a blue bead necklace, untidy hair, and ill-chosen costume, the ideal bride whom she had pictured in her mind's eye!

But the elder lady tried to extend a welcoming hand and call a galvanic smile to her lips.

'I—I am glad to see you,' said she. 'Welcome to Braeside. But—but where is my son?'

'Paul he stayed behind to get a new wagon before he come,' said the bride. 'He said there wasn't no necessity for both of us paying tavern bills. You're his mother, eh? He told me she was a dreadful rheumaticky old creatur', pretty well past her usefulness. Of course you'll go to live with one of the gals. I couldn't stand a mother-in-law noopin' around, and so I told Paul!'

'What girls?' gasped the aristocratic old lady, in amazement and horror.

'Paul's sisters! Ah,' chuckled the bride, 'you see I know all about it. Sarah Ann married the butcher, and Louisy is the wheelwright's wife?'

'There is some mistake here,' said Madam Smythe, unconsciously drawing herself up. 'Paul is an only child, and—'

At this moment, however, Madam Smythe saw the neat little parlor-maid bringing in a tray of refreshments, while Michael, behind the door, was vehemently gesticulating and beckoning to her. Like one in a dream she mechanically obeyed the summons.

'Ma'am,' huskily whispered Michael, 'we've made a mistake. She,' pointing at the stout young woman, who was drinking Mocha coffee out of the saucer, and devouring cold chicken from the knife-blade, 'ain't our Mr. Paul's blessed young lady, arter all! This is the wife of Paul Smith, the blacksmith, who got married last week—down by the lime-kiln, ma'am, you know. Paul won't be here until the next train—more by token, I must make haste down to meet it!'

'But what am I to do with this young person, Michael?' said Madam Smythe, who was all in a tremble.

'I'll manage it, ma'am,' said Michael; and he advanced valiantly into the room. 'Young woman,' said he, 'you've somehow made a mistake. Your Mr. Paul Smith is a blacksmith, four miles down the road. This gentleman here is going to bring his bride by the next train, is quite a different person. If you'll just step into the pony shay, I'll carry you as far as the cross-roads on my way to the station, and its only a step from there to the smithery.'

And so the wrong bride was whisked off the scene as nearly as if she were no more than a puppet on a miniature stage.

An hour later, the real Paul Smythe appeared, with a lovely, blue-eyed girl leaning on his arm—a girl whose exquisitely refined style of beauty was fittingly set off by a Parisian traveling costume, and whose pale-gray gloves fitted like the skin itself.

'Dearest mamma!' said the bride

And Madam Smythe burst into tears as she folded the slight form to her breast.

And, as they all sat around the tea-table in the coral shine of the grate-fire, the old lady recounted her adventure of the afternoon.

'Of course it was all Michael's fault,' said she; 'but, oh, Paul—oh, Louisa—if you could only have seen her!'

'So you're entirely satisfied with your real daughter-in-law, eh, mamma!' said Paul, gaily.

And Madam Smythe bent over to kiss the rosy cheek of the bride, as she answered

'Entirely!'

"Let Politics Alone."

A real clean, nice-looking old couple were at the Union depot yesterday to take a train going South. The husband was nearly 70 years old and pretty lively, and the wife was only a year or two behind him, with a voice that meant business every time she opened her mouth. There was considerable political talk around the depot, and the old man at once became interested.

'I've been over in Canada in the woods for the last two weeks and I hain't heard a thing,' he explained. 'Is the 'lection over with?'

'Yes,' replied one of the men.

'Many riots and knock downs?'

'Thousands of them.'

'I used to be the worst man around the polls you ever see,' continued the old gent as he spit on his hands. 'I've seen the time when it took four constables to hold me.'

'Peter, what are you doing here?' asked the old lady as she suddenly appeared.

'Finding out about politics.'

'What kind?'

'All kinds.'

'Well, you let politics alone and come into the waiting-room.'

'Purty soon. So they had riots and knock downs, eh? Lord! don't I wish I had been around!

'Peter!' called his wife.

'Yes, I'm here. I suppose the candidates set up the drinks, didn't they?'

'Oh, yes.'

'Great shakes! But I wish I'd been over here. Take it along about forty years ago, and after I had three drinks down it took the whole Whig party to hold me. My great hold was in cleaning out the voting places and walking of with the ballot-box.'

'Peter, I want you, called the wife.

'Yes, Nancy. Well, which side—'

Peter was choked off right there. Nancy got hold of his collar and lifted his heels off the floor, whirled him around, and headed him for the waiting-room with the remark:

'After you have lived with me another forty years you'll 'earn that when I say Peter I don't mean Paul! The idea of you standing out here talking politics when we've got to look around for a piece of bed-cord to tie that old satchel up or lose half our duds! Pike!'—Free Press.

Pretzels.

Co'laborers—Anthracite miners.

Hard case, that which happened in the suburbs. A man turned to stone! We should have said the man was a hard case, and turned to stone a dog, breaking the poor creature's leg.

A Boston bugler may blast away to his heart's content for hours and nobody calls him to account, but let a Boston drummer simply say 'Darn it!' and somebody's feelings are injured at once.

Local Small Talk.

—The store windows are beginning to assume a holiday look.

—Now is the time to use printer's ink. Merchants, chalk this down.

—There is some talk of a free-for-all pedestrian contest being undertaken soon.

—Altoona's street railway project has fizzled out. This will make Williamsport snicker.

—Adam Hoy, Esq., has given the woodwork of his residence on High street a coat of fresh paint.

—Apples are plenty and cheap in Centre county, and now is the time to lay in a supply for winter eating.

—The man with the performing bear is on the road. He was in Tyrone the other day bearing towards Bellefonte.

—Three Chinamen have established a laundry in Johnstown. Won't the Watchman howl, though, when it hears of it.

—See here: Thanksgiving day comes on the 329th day of the year. Strange coincidence. Ask some Democrat to explain it.

—Do not delay your fall advertising but come to the front and state to the people what bargains you are preparing to offer them.

—Business is brisk at W. P. Duncan & Co.'s foundry. This firm has all the orders on hand they can fill for some time to come.

—It is amusing to hear Democratic journals hereabouts talk about such rascals as Randall, Hewitt, Barnum, etc., being "honorable and upright gentlemen."

—Farmers have thus far been unable to supply the demand for turkeys. They ought to have known that this would be a big thanksgiving year and planted more.

—Change is scarce in Bellefonte, particularly quarters and half dollars. A person has to run all over town to get a two dollar bill changed, and then doesn't succeed.

—Bright-faced, handsome misses wear Derby hats. — [Williamsport Banner. Well, don't pale-faced, homely misses wear 'em, too? Why thus discriminate in favor of health and beauty?

—We are glad to notice that a number of our citizens are putting their sidewalks in repair before the cold and disagreeable weather sets in. This is an important work and should not be neglected.

—H. H. Goshen, late of the Owl, which hasn't hooted since muzzled by Bellefonte parties, has shaken the dust of Mifflin from his shoes and gone to Colorado Springs to work at the printing business.

—The trial of Harry English, the noted desperado in Elk county, for various offenses, will cost $6,000 and the county will be obliged to borrow money to meet it. He is a heavy load for one county to carry —The Democrat gives Al. Garman and Bill Sweeny away bad. Says they went out to hunt jack-rabbits and did not discover until they were fourteen miles from home that they had forgotten their guns. Powerful joke, that.

—Who will be the next couple to embark on the matrimonial wave? Sail in, gentlemen, while the fever rageth. Lots of good material right here in town to select from and ready to open negotiations on the all-important subject.

—We cannot comply with the request of the Democrat to disclose the whereabouts of that smiling maiden, "Indian Summer"—really we can't. We spent too much valuable time in hunting her up to dispose of our secret for nothing.

—The Philadelphia Record says of Monte Ward, of this place: "Of the work accomplished by the eight pitchers in the League, Ward, of the Providence team, leads in having the best average of earned runs—that is, the smallest per centage of earned runs against the pitching."

—Mr. Charles Bauer, formerly professor of penmanship at the Academy, in this place, and who has been engaged during the fall in Clearfield county, has returned again to Bellefonte. We believe it is his intention to remain permanently providing he is successful in obtaining employment.

—A colored boy fell off a freight car at the depot Wednesday. The cars were not moving, and as he fell on to the depot platform, he escaped being ground to pieces, which is just our luck. If the boys are not more careful in playing about the cars, though, it will be our duty to chronicle just such an accident one of these days.

—Mr. George Valentine and family have taken possession of their handsome new residence on Allegheny street, although, we believe, it is not yet quite finished. The building is constructed of brown stone, three stories in height, and from the sightly location and pleasant surroundings is considered one of the finest and most conspicuous residences in town.

—A two-horse team belonging to Mr. Green Irvin, of Oak Hall, became frightened at the cars Friday and broke away from the hitching post before Sechler's store, where they were hitched. The animals were captured before they had gone far; not, however, until they had demolished the wagon tongue and slightly injured the axle.

—Mr. James Wolfenden, of Lock Haven, who is still energetically pushing the Nittany and Sugar Valley railroad project, was in town last week. In order that he may be near the projected enterprise, and also for the good of his health, Mr. Wolfenden is looking for employment in this part of the State, being a machinist and master of his trade. We hope he will be successful.

—Messrs. Black and Goldman, the fireproof paint men, are doing a good business in Milesburg. This preparation for preserving roofs against fire and leaks is a good article and highly recommended by all who have used it. There are a great many bad, leaky roofs in Milesburg, and the owners should not neglect this opportunity of having them repaired and made fireproof while these gentlemen are with them.

—William Erhard, of Gregg township, says the Watchman, died very suddenly on Sunday afternoon last, about three o'clock, of heart disease. Mr. Erhard lived at Spring Mills, and on Saturday was about his work as usual, although he complained of not feeling altogether well. He was upwards of 40 years of age, and was a brother of Aaron Erhard, of this place. He was a prominent candidate for the Democratic nomination for Treasurer two years ago

—A man from the valley who was in town Wednesday was very much "taken" with the group of dummies before Guggenheimer's store. After staring at them hard from the opposite side of the street he crossed over to take a nearer view. Just as he reached the sidewalk his curiosity seemed to have been suddenly satisfied, for he turned around and retraced his steps, simply remarking, "Well, by thunder!" while the expression on his countenance indicated that the investigation was entirely satisfactory.

It Is Said—

That the spelling bee will buzz again this winter.

That the Bellefonte public will have an opportunity to hear Robert G Ingersoll some time during the winter season.

That nineteen men are fishing for the postoffice with several townships yet to hear from.

That fifty young men from this place will attend the inauguration at Washington, all wearing plug hats, and to be known as the "Plug Hat Inaugural Brigade."

That some Democrats still think Tilden was elected.

That a bold hunter of this place, who pretends not to look at anything smaller than a wild cat, bought himself a new twenty-seven dollar gun and three dollars' worth of ammunition on Monday, and on the following day went out to depopulate the woods. He was gone a day and a-half, tramped over fifteen miles of country and brought back a last year's crow's nest and a mud snipe. That's about the size of it.

That hunters are more numerous around here than the game, by a large majority.

That a Humpty-Dumpty troupe is booked for Bellefonte about the first of January.

That a tea agent from Baltimore went down the stairway leading to the tin-shop beneath Wilson & McFarlane's hardware store last night. He went down head-first, and knocked the crown out of his Derby.

Building Associations and the State Tax.

One good effect of the "settlement', made by the Auditor-General against the building societies of the State for a tax on capital stock, says an exchange, has been to strengthen their organization—the Building Association League—and unite them in a common effort to defeat what they consider an unjust attempt to impose upon them a tax not intended by the Legislature to be applied to such societies. There are over two hundred associations now in the League, and they probably represent at least forty or fifty thousand depositors and interests reaching into millions of dollars. The League has undertaken to contest in the courts the claim made by the Auditor-General for the tax, and will also endeavor to get the Legislature to pass an amendatory or explanatory act to remove obscurities in the law which gives origin to the dispute.

How to Dress Your Thanksgiving Turkey.

The following description of how to dress turkeys, from the American Agriculturist, will doubtless be of interest to our readers, as Thanksgiving and Christmas is near at hand: A turkey raiser who prides himself on sending to market the handsomest lot of turkeys in his town, for the Christmas market, tells us how he dresses his birds. The turkeys are fed as usual on the evening before butchering, and in the morning driven in upon the barn floor, as soon as they come from the roost, and are made secure. Their crops are empty and they can be caught as they are wanted. Make a slip noose of strong cord for each turkey, in an adjoining stable or shed, put the turkey's legs into the noose, and with a small pointed knife stick the bird as near the head as possible. As soon as the bird is dead, strip off the feathers, pin feathers and all. Cut the neck off as near the head as possible, remove the wings and draw the entrails before taking the bird down. The turkey is hung alive and taken down ready for market. Lay the bird on his breast or side upon a clean board to cool. Turkeys should be carefully handed in dressing to avoid breaking the skin, for it rubs off very easily when they are warm. Remove all the pin feathers and pack the birds, when sent to market, in clean straw, so there will be no marks of blood upon them. Handsome, clean birds will add a cent a pound and often more to market price of all kinds of poultry.

How They Took It.

On Friday evening, says the Gazette and Bulletin of Saturday, Sheriff Bastian informed Catharine Miller and George Smith of the fact that he was in receipt of their death warrants from the Governor, appointing the 6th of January next as the time for their execution. Smith received the terrible news calmly, but Mrs. Miller broke out into violent paroxysms of grief, which were kept up for several hours. Until the receipt of this news the unfortunate woman did not realize the fact that her life was in jeopardy. A great deal of this may be attributed to the ignorance of the woman, but the most of it has undoubtedly been brought about by visitors sympathizing with her and assuring her that she will be pardoned. A petition, it is true, has been out for some time past receiving signatures of people throughout the city and county requesting the board of pardons to commute her punishment to imprisonment for life, but time only will tell whether that petition will be successful. Many hope that it will, and will do all in their power to save the State from such a horrible scene as that of hanging a woman. To-day Mrs. Miller seems more resigned to her fate, although at times her moans are of the most agonizing nature.

"The Raquet."

The following is the best description of the latest dance—the "Raquet"—we have seen yet, and from what we have seen and heard it is not overdrawn in the least: "The music strikes up with a crash, as though a new volcano had broken out, and the girl will cling tightly as though frightened, if she understands the dance, and the young man will reassure her by a gentle pressure if he understands the dance or knows anything at all. At the second crash they dodge, as though some one had thrown a blacksmith shop at them, and they start in. They begin by imitating the struggle for life, representing a person who is drowning, but at sound of the cymbals and bass drum they dodge and scoot to one side, then dart back again, jam each other sideways and then as the crashes of music become terrific and deafening they try to cram each other through the floor by main strength, get desperate and claw and tear and pull, and all at once they go raving mad with hydrophobia and delirium tremens, and gnash their teeth, rave and suffer the most terrible agony—and it is all over. It is a short dance, as the design is amusement, and not murder."

—Several weeks ago the firm of D. M. Wagner & Son lost the key to their iron safe, and all efforts to find it proved unavailing. The manufacturers of the safe were written to for instructions to open it, but no satisfactory answer was received. There was some $60, together with various papers and books used in the daily transaction of business stored in the safe, and to get possession of them the firm resolved to chisel the door off. On Friday John Fellenbaum performed the operation, much to the relief of the senior partner who was just more than aching to see how the complexion of that $60 looked.

—Skates have made their appearance in the hardware store windows and are eyed greedily by the boys as they pass by on their way to and from school.

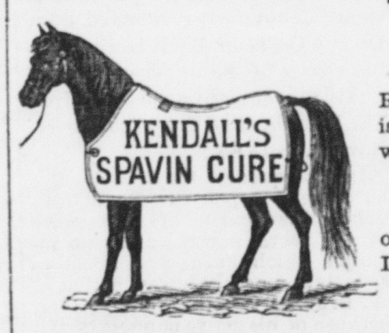
Kendall's Spavin Cure.



It Cures Spavins, Splints, Curbs Ringbones, and all similar Blemishes, and Removes the Bunch without Blistering.

For Man it is now known to be one of the best, if not the best, Liniments ever discovered.

We feel positive that every man can have perfect success in every case if he will only use good common sense in applying KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE, and persevere in bad cases of long standing. Read below the experience of others.

From Col. L. T. Foster.

Youngstown, Ohio, May 10th, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co.: GENTS: I had a very valuable Hambletonian colt which I prized very highly; he had a large bone spavin on one joint and a smaller one on the other, which made him very lame. I had him under the charge of two veterinary surgeons, which failed to cure him. I was one day reading the advertisement of Kendall's Spavin Cure in the Chicago Express; I determined at once to try it, and got our druggists here to send for it. They ordered three bottles. I took them all and thought I would give it a thorough trial. I used it according to the directions and by the fourth day the colt ceased to be lame, and the lumps had entirely disappeared. I used but one bottle, and the colt's limbs are as free from lumps and as smooth as any horse in the state. He is entirely cured. The cure was so remarkable that I let two of my neighbors have the remaining two bottles, who are now using it.
Very respectfully, L. T. FOSTER.

From Rev. P. N. Granger,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.

St. Albans, Vt., Jan. 20th, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co.: GENTS. In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with Kendall's Spavin Cure has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of Lameness caused by spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks, when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ringbone was forming. I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found.
Respectfully yours, P. N. GRANGER.

PERSEVERANCE WILL TELL.

Stoughton, Mass., March 10th, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & Co.: GENTS: In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with Kendall's Spavin cure, one very large one. Don't know now long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off, and two months for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me its sale will be very great.
Resp'y yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

STATEMENT MADE UNDER OATH.

To Whom it may Concern: In 1875 I treated with Kendall's Spavin Cure a bone spavin of several months' growth, nearly half as large as a hen's egg, and completely stopped the lameness and removed the enlargement. I have worked the horse ever since very hard, and he has never been lame, nor could I ever see any difference in the size of the hock joints since I treated them with Kendall's Spavin Cure. R. A. GAINES.
Enosburg Falls, Vt., Feb. 25th, 1879.
Sworn and subscribed to before me this 25th day of Feb., A. D. 1879.
JOHN G. JENNE,
Justice of the Peace.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE.

ON HUMAN FLESH it has been ascertained by repeated trials to be the very best Liniment ever used for any deep-seated pain of long standing, or of short duration. Also for CORNS, BUNIONS, FROST-BITES or any bruise, cut or lameness. Some are afraid to use it on human flesh simply because it is a horse medicine, but you should remember that what is good for BEAST is good for MAN, and we know from experience that KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE can be used on a child one year old with perfect safety. Its effects are wonderful on human flesh and it does not blister or make a sore. Try it and be convinced.

What is Good for Beast is Good for Man

Read of its effects on human flesh:

Patten's Mills, Wash. co., N. Y., Feb. 21, 1878.

B. J. KENDALL, M. D.: Dear Sir: The particular case on which I used your Kendall's Spavin Cure was a malignant ankle sprain of sixteen months' standing. I had tried many things, but in vain. Your Kendall's Spavin Cure put the foot to the ground again, and, for the first time since hurt, in a natural position. For a family liniment it excels anything we ever used. Yours truly,
Rev. M. P. BELL,
Pastor M. E. Church, Patten's Mills, N.Y.

Bakersfield, Vt., Dec. 23, 1879.

B. J. KENDALL & Co.: GENTS: I wish to add my testimony in favor of your invaluable Liniment, Kendall's Spavin Cure. In the spring of 1872 I slipped on the ice and sprained my right limb at the knee joint. I was very lame and at times suffered the most excruciating pain. I wore a bandage on it for over a year, and tried most everything in my reach, but could find nothing that would give me permanent relief. When I overworked, it would pain me very much. In April, 1878, I began to think I should be a cripple for life, but having some of Kendall's Spavin Cure thought I would try it. I used one-third of a bottle and experienced relief at once. The pain left me and has not troubled me since. I feel very grateful to you and would recommend Kendall's Spavin Cure to all who suffer with sprains or rheumatism.
Yours truly, MRS. J. BOUTELL.

Send address for Illustrated Circular, which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.
Price $1 per bottle, or six bottles for $5. All druggists have it or can get it for you, or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors.

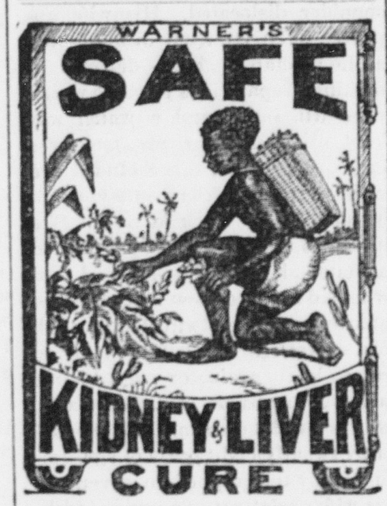
WARNER'S SAFE KIDNEY & LIVER CURE



THE Leading Scientists of to-day agree that most diseases are caused by disordered Kidneys or Liver. If, therefore, the Kidneys and Liver are kept in perfect order, perfect health will be the result. This truth has only been known a short time, and for years people suffered great agony without being able to find relief. The discovery of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure marks a new era in the treatment of these troubles. Made from a simple tropical leaf of rare value, it contains just the elements necessary to nourish and invigorate both of these great organs, and safely restore and keep them in order. It is a POSITIVE Remedy for all the diseases that cause pains in the lower part of the body—for Torpid Liver—Headaches—Jaundice—Dizziness—Gravel—Fever—Ague—Malarial Fever, and all difficulties of the Kidneys, Liver and Urinary Organs.
It is an excellent and safe remedy fo females during pregnancy. It will control Menstruation and is invaluable for Lucorrhœa or Falling of the Womb.
As a Blood Purifier it is unequaled, for it cures the organs that make the blood.

VEGETABLE CATTLE POWDER AND CATTLE LINIMENT

Is a sure cure for all the ordinary diseases of Horses, Cattle, Sheep and Swine. It cures and prevents Chicken Cholera. Your cow is certain to yield 25 per cent more and better milk and butter. Stock fattens on one-fourth less feed!
Being in possession of a large number of excellent testimonials, I subjoin a few:
I have been using your Cattle Powder for horses, cows, chickens and pigs, and find it a first class thing.—GEORGE BOND, Germantown, Pa.
Please send me half a gross of Cattle Powder. I have used two packs on my cow and chickens. The cow gave nearly twice the quantity of milk that she did before, and gave twice the amount of butter. My chickens were dying, but were cured immediately after I had used the powder. Yours truly, JONAS PASOUR, Dallas, N. C.
I have used and compared your Cattle Powder with all others, and must say it is the best for horses, cattle, sheep, hogs, &c. I have tried it on poultry for many complaints, with success in every case.—JONATHAN WEAVER, Berrysburg, Pa.
Last summer you sent me a pack of your powder which I gave to my poultry, and have not had one droopy turkey or chicken since.—MRS. WM. KNAPP, Orange, N. Y.
Send me a pack or two of your Cattle Powder. The pack I got from you last winter cured the chicken cholera. I gave some of it to a neighbor and it cured his chickens.—JOHN WILLIAMS, Spruce Vale, Ohio.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.
The Positive Cure
For all Female Complaints.

This preparation, as its name signifies, consists of Vegetable Properties that are harmless to the most delicate invalid. Upon one trial the merits of this Compound will be recognized, as relief is immediate; and when its use is continued, in ninety-nine cases in a hundred, a permanent cure is effected, as thousands will testify. On account of its proven merits, it is to-day recommended and prescribed by the best physicians in the country.
It will cure entirely the worst form of falling of the uterus, Leucorrhœa, irregular and painful Menstruation, all Ovarian Troubles, Inflammation and Ulceration, Floodings, all Displacements and the consequent spinal weakness, and is especially adapted to the Change of Life. It will dissolve and expel tumors from the uterus in an early stage of development. The tendency to cancerous humors there is checked very speedily by its use.
In fact it has proved to be the greatest and best remedy that has ever been discovered. It permeates every portion of the system, and gives new life and vigor. It removes faintness, flatulency, destroys all craving for stimulants, and relieves weakness of the stomach
It cures Bloating, Headaches, Nervous Prostration, General Debility, Sleeplessness, Depression and Indigestion. That feeling of bearing down, causing pain, weight and backache, is always permanently cured by its use. It will at all times, and under all circumstances, act in harmony with the law that governs the female system.
For Kidney Complaints of either sex this compound is unsurpassed.

In combination with other journals the American Agriculturist is now much more largely used than ever before. While agriculture is the most important of all pursuits, its profitableness is coming more and more to depend upon improved labor-saving, labor-helping mechanical appliances. Illustrative engravings of various labor-helping contrivances, implements animals, plants, buildings, etc., are indispensable in supplying the information most desired by cultivators generally. Its special facilities for supplying these engravings, as well as other reliable information generally, makes the American Agriculturist a very appropriate "Companion," or Supplement, to any other journal, and for this purpose it is supplied at the lowest possible rates, as follows:

MORNING NEWS and Agriculturist $4 50 per year.

Bellefonte Republican and Agriculturist $3 00 per year.

By this arrangement our farmer friends can secure an excellent agricultural journal and a daily paper for the low price of $4 50 a year, the lowest price at which even a daily papor alone can be had anywhere else in the world. The NEWS is delivered to all early trains, leaving Bellefonte on day of publication, and is thereby placed in the hands of farmers sooner than any city daily published. Remember the price—only $4 50 for a daily newspaper and the best agricultural journal published in the United States! Address the NEWS PUBLISHING CO., Bellefonte, Pa.

The Herdic Coach.

A description of the Herdic coach, of which so much has been said of late in the papers, may be of interest to our readers, as they are of unique construction. The body of the coach is of square build and is painted red below and black above. At the front and on a level with the floor of the coach is stationed the driver's seat, large enough to seat comfortably two persons, but intended for the use of the driver alone. A platform about half the width of the body is at the back and extends the entire height of the coach, having a door on each side by which the passengers enter and leave. This body is placed upon stationary axies which are about two feet from the ground and twelve to eighteen inches below the hub of the wheel, to which they are connected by upright bars of steel, through which runs a second revolving bar, upon which the wheel turns, the axles, which are connected by two square steel bars, remaining stationary. The rear axle supports the entire weight of the coach, which is built to carry eight passengers and will be considered full when this number are seated within it. The axles and running gear are of steel, tempered and adjusted, and are patented by Peter Herdic. On the 20th of last April a patent for the coaches was issued to Herdic, who had recently been relieved of grave financial embarrassments by the United States court in bankruptcy. He was without capital, but submitted his patent to some gentlemen, who suggested the utilization of it by the formation of companies for personal transportation, first in Philadelphia and subsequently in Altoona, Johnstown and other cities and towns, to each of which an exclusive right for the city or town should be granted. In accordance with this the Herdic personal transportation company of Philadelphia was formed on July 20, and articles of incorporation were granted to it. The Philadelphia corporation has a capital of $250,000, which is divided into twelve hundred shares of $20 each.

After the Battle.

The fight is done, the victory won,
And loud in Freedom's cause
All loyal hearts, with one acclaim,
Are sounding glad huzzas.

We've struggled to maintain the right,
Those principles so grand,
That have cost us countless treasure
And stained with blood our land.

We've demonstrated to the world
That our Nation still is true,
And forgets not to be grateful
To the gallant boys in blue,

Who surrendered home, and love, and life,
That our country still might live;
Poured out upon her sacred shrine
The all they had to give.

Yes, we've remembered well the graves
Grown green for many years,
And will cover them anew with flowers,
And baptize them with our tears.

We remember, too, or Lincoln,
And his sad, untimely fate;
And we could not trust his enemies
To guide the ship of state.

But we've chosen one who loved him,
Who reveres his memory yet,
Who will emulate his virtues
And his motto not forget.

We could not trust to Hancock,
Who, bearing the stripes and stars,
Sought to command the boys in gray,
Who bore the stars and bars.

For the hero great, of Gettysburg,
Has tarnished his renown,
And in the dust of broken faith
Has laid his laurels down.

But with Garfield standing at the helm
The old ship, as before,
Will plow through deepest waters
Till her keel shall strike the shore.

So three times three for liberty,
For justice and for right;
Send forth your shouts for freedom,
And send them with your might.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10, 1880. S.

Advice to Correspondents.

Never write with pen or ink. It is altogether too plain, and doesn't hold the mind of the editor and printers closely enough to their work.

If you are compelled to use ink, never use that vulgarity known as the blotting pad. If you drop a blot of ink on the page, lick it off. The intelligent compositer loves nothing so dearly as to read through the smear this will make of twenty or thirty words. We have seen him hang over such a piece of copy half an hour all the time swearing like a pirate, he felt so good.

Don't punctuate. We prefer to punctuate all manuscript sent to us. And don't use capitals. Then we can punctuate and capitalize to suit ourself, and your article, when you see it in print, will astonish, even if it does not suit you.

Don't try to write too plainly. It is a sign of plebeian origin and public school breeding. It's about the only indication of genius that a great many men possess. Scrawl your article with your eyes shut and make every word as illegible as you can. We get the same price for it from the rag man as though it were covered with copper-plate sentences.

Avoid all painstaking with proper names. We know the full name of every man, woman and child in the United States, and the merest hint at the name is sufficient. For instance, if you write a character something like a figure '8' and then draw a wavy line, and the letter M and another waving line, we will know at once that you mean Samuel Morrison, even though you may think you mean Lemuel Messenger. It is a great mistake that proper names should be written properly.

Always write on both sides of the paper, and when you have filled both sides of every page, trail a line up and down every margin, and back to the top of the first page, closing your article by writing your signature just above the date. And how we would like to get hold of the man who sends items, just for ten minutes, alone in the woods, with a cannon in our hip pocket. Revenge is sweet, yum, yum, yum.

Lay you paper on the ground when you write, the rougher the ground the better.

Coarse, brown wrapping paper is the best for writing you articles on. If you can tear down an old circus poster and write on the pasty side of it with a pen stick, it will do still better.

When your article is completed, crunch your paper in your pocket, and carry it two or three days before sending it. This rubs off the superfluous pencil marks, and makes it lighter to handle.

If you can think of it, lose one page out of the middle of you article. We can easily supply what is missing, and we love to do it. We have nothing else to do.—Burlington Hawkeye.

THE LATEST NEWS.

Romantic Elopement.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—An extraordinary case of elopement was yesterday brought to police headquarters. A young woman of attractive appearance and exquisitely dressed was arrested upon reaching the city from Philadelphia, and detained at the central office until the arrival of her husband, Mr. Bergmann, when the facts were developed. The woman is but seventeen years of age, and was married two years ago to Bergmann, a gentleman of wealth, and whose position in society is of the best. She has now an income of $10,000 a year, and will shortly add $25 000 a year in her own right to it. Last year the couple traveled in Europe, and on returning to America the wife made the acquaintance of a dashing young Spaniard, of good family. She fell deeply in love with him, and from that moment her demeanor toward her husband changed. Everything that was possible was done to wean her from her infatuation, and the straits imposed upon her to prevent scandal wrecked her reason, and she is insane, but her appearance is that of a pretty young woman, in full possession of her mental faculties. A few days ago her husband was thrown from a buggy and had his shoulder dislocated. His wife appeared to be far from disappointed at the mishap, and was detected in making preparations to elope, which were frustrated, and a watch was kept on her and private detectives employed, so that if she eluded the vigilance of her friends they could be put on her track at once. She managed to escape and was arrested as stated above. The husband and wife had an interview at the police quarters, and notwithstanding all his entreaties the wife refused to return home again, or even to live with her husband. Mr. Bergmann, who is a tall, handsome man, apparently twenty-eight years of age, immediately telegraphed to several of his wife's relatives to come on without delay, and if she persists in refusing to return home, it is understood her mental condition will be looked into, with a view to having her legally committed to an insane asylum.

Lead Works Destroyed by Fire.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 20.—The St. Louis Refinery and Smelting Works, situated at Chittenham about five miles from the centre of the city, were destroyed by fire at three o'clock yesterday morning. Loss about $125,000, insured for $35,000. The fire was caused by the bursting of one of the smelting furnaces containing twenty-five tons of molten lead. Jno. Williams, night engineer, while attempting to save his clothing, was overtaken by the flames and burned to a crisp. 150 men are thrown out of employment. The works will be reconstructed. The loss is now estimated at $60,000 to $75,000. The insurance foots up $40,700 in eastern and foreign companies.

Immigration Treaty with China.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—A dispatch has been received at the Department of State announcing that a treaty on the subject of immigration had been concluded between the United States Commissioners and the Government of China.

Secretary Evarts is expected to return from New York on Monday. During his absence the State Department declines to make public the text of the new Chinese treaty which has been concluded. It is understood, however, that Secretary Evarts considers the provisions of the treaty as highly satisfactory, and as covering the whole subject of Chinese immigration into this country.

Garfield's Birthday Celebration.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 20.—General Garfield observed his forty-ninth birthday to-day, as has been his custom for years, by paying a visit, with his wife, to his uncle, Thomas Garfield, at Warrenville, this county, aged 79, whose birthday falls on the same date. The reunion was purely informal. A family party of about seventy relatives and immediate friends were present. After a four o'clock dinner General and Mrs. Garfield visited a relative in this city, where he was called upon by a large number of citizens of the neighborhood, although his coming was not generally known. In the evening he went to his home in Mentor.

What General Grant Says.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—At the dinner given by Col. Beard of Brooklyn, to General Grant on Monday, the latter, in the course of the conversation, made the following statement, which effectually disposes of the silly calumny:

"The reported bargain at Mentor is not true. There was nothing said to Garfield but that which was said in the presence of a large number of people, for there was no time while there that we were not surrounded by a crowd, and there was no private interview sought or held. There was no bargain whatever."

The Rush for the Inauguration.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The hotelkeepers here are already refusing applications for rooms for inauguration week. Every room in some of the hotels are engaged, and every available space upon which a cot bed can be placed is already allotted. The proprietor of the Riggs House has received applications to lodge 1,700 persons from the city of Philadelphia alone. Returning Congressmen say that it is almost impossible to secure a furnished house here at any price.

Election Law Violation in Virginia

DANVILLE, Va., Nov. 20.—H. L. Davis, one of the Judges of the election in the city, at the Presidential election, was arrested to-day, upon complaint of Joe Jones, colored, charged with violation of the election laws of the United States. He was partially examined before the United States Commissioner this evening and the examination continued until to-morrow.

Rough weather in the Northwest.

Hanover, Nov. 22.—Snow fell yesterday to the death of ten inches. The weather is cold and the mercury is steadily falling.

Claremont, Nov. 22.—The first snow of the season here fell yesterday to the depth of seven inches. There is good sleighing to-day.

Syracuse, Nov. 22.—The cold weather to-day closed the Erie and Oswego canals in this section. The thermometer stood at 15° above zero. There are seven hundred boats between Rochester and Utica. The ice-breaker will be put to work on the Syracuse and long levels of the Erie canal to-morrow, and an attempt will be made to get the boats through. If a thaw sets in in a day or two the boats will be able to reach tidewater. The last boats left Buffalo on Wednesday and are now between this city and Rochester.

Father Point, Nov. 22.—A heavy wind storm raged here all day, the velocity of the wind at times reaching eighty-four miles per hour.

Brussels, Nov. 22.—Snow has fallen to the depth of two feet here since noon yesterday. The roads are badly blocked. The thermometer is at zero, with a heavy gale blowing.

St. John, Nov. 22.—A heavy rain storm passed over St. John last night. A gale from the northwest has prevailed to-day. No damage has yet been reported.

Buffalo, Nov. 22.—The schooner Falmouth, of Oswego, while trying to make this port for repairs about four o'clock this morning struck the eastern end of the new breakwater and shortly after foundered in 23 feet of water. All the crew escaped but the cook, a woman, who refused to leave her effects, and went down with the vessel.

Loss of $210,000 in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 22.—A fire broke out Saturday in the third floor of the five-story building, Nos. 72 and 74 Wabash avenue, occupied by Lord, Stoutenburgh & Co., wholesale druggists. The fire was caused by an explosion of vitrol, and by the explosion of some whiskey stored on that floor it spread to the rest of the building. The fire burned so rapidly that twelve young women working on that floor escaped with difficuty. The loss on the building was $60,000; insurance, $30,000. The loss on the stock is estimated at $150,000; insurance, $120,000; of which $50,5000 is distributed as follows: Metropolis, $5,000; Hartford, $3,000; Commercial Union, $3,000; the Hamburg of Breman, Phœnix of London, Enterprise of Meriden, Star of St. Paul, the Underwriters' and the Traders' of Rhode Island, La Confidence of Paris, the Niagara of Pennsylvania, the Ætna of Buffalo, the German of Detroit, the Firemen's Fund of Newark, and the Merchants', $2,500 each; and the Lumbermans', $1,500.

Conkling and Grant at Mentor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The charge recently circulated by Democratic newspapers that General Garfield made a "bargain" with General Grant, Senator Conkling and others at the time of their visit to Mentor, after the meeting at Warren, Ohio, which was to hold good in case of his election, is refuted by the testimony of a gentleman of the highest authority who was present during the entire interview. Senator Conkling and the other guests were cordially received, and the conversation was entirely social. No reference was made to politics. Deputy Internal Revenue Collector Lanier, of Louisiana, a candidate for Congress at the recent election, is threatened with assassination, and has so informed Commissioner Raum. Collector Marks of New Orleans has been instructed to employ an armed force of men to protect Collector Lanier in the discharge of his duty.

The Victims of the Asylum Fire.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 22.—A dispatch from St. Peter says that the remains of six unidentified victims of the Asylum fire were buried yesterday. No more of the missing patients have been heard from, and it is feared that all now missing are dead. This brings the list of dead up to thirty-two. Possibly three or four of the missing patients may yet be found. Although J. C. Brennan is reported to have been seen alive on the railroad track after the fire, the asylum officers have grave fears that he is among the dead.

Partly Devoured by Hogs.

NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—The body of the woman found yesterday morning in a lot at the foot of East Fourth street, Long Island City, and recognized as Mrs. Jane Lewin, of No. 1,432 Second avenue, New York, was buried from Davren's Morgue yesterday afternoon. She left her home Thursday morning, and was last seen alive that evening in Jackson avenue, Long Island City, in company with two men of bad character, for whom the police are now looking. She was not a habitual drunkard, but indulged in periodical debauches, and was in a semi-intoxicated condition Thursday night. The body was discovered by some school boys, who upon approaching it were horrified by seeing several hogs gnawing voraciously at the woman's limbs. The flesh of the right foot and the calves of both legs were eaten off. The spot where the body was found is dreary and secluded. Several of the residents in the vicinity say that they heard cries for help about 10 o'clock Thursday night. The body when found lay with the head on a small stone, and there was a cut and wound over the left eye. Dr. Z. K. Donlon, who made the post mortem examination, is of the opinion that the woman was assaulted and then thrown down the embankment.

Assassination in Louisiana.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 22.—Internal Revenue Collector Marks at New Orleans has forwarded to Commissioner Raum a letter received from Deputy Collector B. H. Lanier, who has charge of the upper parishes of Louisiana bordering on the river. The letter is dated Lake Providence, Nov. 10, and says:

In consequence of my candidature for Congress upon the Republican ticket, the spirit of intolerance which prevails here, and the attempts which have been made to assassinate me, the assassination of W. B. Jones, the editor of my paper, because of his active support of the Garfield electors and myself, render it utterly impossible for me properly to discharge my duties as deputy collector of internal revenue for this district. In addition, I have to inform you that I am at this moment a prisoner in my own house, and dare not go out for fear of immediate assassination. I find it also necessary to leave this collection district, at least for the present, to secure my personal safety. Please advise me what to do in the premises.

In reply to this letter Gen. Raum this afternoon telegraphed Collector Marks at New Orleans as follows:

I do not intend to allow our officers to be intimidated and driven from their districts. Employ five competent, courageous men, and arm them well, to accompany Deputy Collector Lanier in policing his division and enforcing the laws. Instruct them to defend themselves at every hazard. I will furnish you breech-loading carbines if necessary.

General Grant Entertained.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—The Lotos Club entertained General Grant at dinner last evening. The gathering of the members of the Club and their friends was large. Whitelaw Reid presided and made the address of welcome, to which General Grant responded. Speeches were also made by Governor Cornell, Mayor Cooper, Chauncey M. Depew, General Horace Porter, Colonel T. W. Knox, and others. A noticeable feature of the evening was the proposal of the health of President Hayes by Colonel Richard Lathers, and of that of "the President-elect, General Garfield," by Mayor Cooper.

Murder by a Woman.

ALLENTOWN, Nov. 23.—About five o'clock last evening an unmarried man named Charles Schaeffer, aged twenty-three, and a married woman named Florey Gehringer, aged thirty, had an altercation in Peter Spang's saloon, in this city, during which Mrs. Gehringer drew a large knife and stabbed Schaeffer to the heart. The unfortunate man is expected to live not more than two hours. The woman was arrested and placed in jail. Both the parties were drunk at the time.

Not Guilty of Perjury.

HARRISBURG, November 22.—The charges of perjury against William H. Kemble, Charles B. Salter and Jesse R. Crawford were dismissed this morning. On account of the insufficient evidence, the Judge instructed the jury in each case to render a verdict of not guilty.

The International Regatta.

LONDON, Nov. 22.—The final heat of the international regatta on the Thames was won by Laycock, with Ross second, Hosmer, the Boston man, third, and Smith last. The attendance was large and orderly, and the heat close and interesting. It is reported that Laycock has challenged Hanlan.

Suit Against a City.

KEENE, N. H., Nov. 22.—Suit has been brought against this city for $140,000—the amount of the gratuity voted by the city several years ago to the Manchester and Keene Railroad.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The contents of the Edinburg Review for October, reprinted by The Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay street, N. Y., are as follows:

'Life of Lord Lynedoch,' an interesting sketch of his military career. He served in the expedition to Toulon in 1793, made a campaign with the Austrian army in the north of Italy, was with Sir John Moore at Corunna, retired from the army in 1814, and died in 1843 at the age of ninety-six.

'Annals of Exeter College.' The fourth in antiquity in the University of Oxford.

'Records of Early English Adventure.' In attempting to trace the rise of English commercial prosperity in the East, we find ourselves carried back to those early voyages of discovery that were undertaken in the reign of Elizabeth. We search for the north-west passage and for gold with Frobisher, visit the East Indies with Lancaster, make acquaintance with the Great Mogul, and learn the origin of the East India Co., and its struggles with Spanish, Portuguese, and Dutch rivals.

'The Chemistry of the Stars,' shows the wonderful amount of information concerning the stars that has been obtained by the use of the spectroscope.

'Saint-Simon's Parallel of Three Kings.' The book here reviewed, which takes a high rank in French literature, is an exact historical comparison of the characters and reigns of Henry IV., Louis XIII, and Louis XIV. Copious extracts are given.

'Howorth's History of the Mongols.'

'Germany, Present and Past,' Such a depressing account of the social condition of Germany is here given, that one is tempted to hope that the writer's love of English institutions leads him to exaggerate the defects of those that differ from them.

'Trevelyan's Early History of Fox.'

'The Candahar Campaign.' A narrative and a criticism of the late campaign in Afghanistan, which will be very acceptable to all who have seen only fragmentary telegrams.

The periodicals reprinted by The Leonard Scott Publishing Co., 41 Barclay Street, N. Y., are as follows: The London Quarterly, Edinburg, Westminster, and British Quarterly Reviews and Blackwood's Magazine. Price $4 a year for any one, or only $15 for all, and the postage is prepaid by the publishers.

St. Nicholas for 1880.

5000 FOR ENGLAND, 100,000 FOR AMERICA.

St. Nicholas, the charming magazine for boys and girls, edited by Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, has increased so much in size and number of pages during the year past that the publishers have been obliged to issue the yearly volume in two parts, instead of one as heretofore. As to its circulation, they report a gain of 10,000 in the average monthly edition of 1880 over 1879. The announcements for the coming year include a capital serial story for boys, full of exciting adventure "In Nature's Wonderland," or, Adventures in the American tropics; Stories of Art and Artists, by Mrs. Clara Erskine Clement, a faithful outline of the history of European Art, with many illustartions; "Phaeton Rogers," a delightful and humorous serialby Roesiter Johnson; "Mystery in a Mansion," a six months' serial; The Treasure-Box of Literature, directing and encouraging young people in the best reading; The Agassiz Association fully explained in the November number; "Two English Queens," by Mrs. Oliphant; "The Land of Nod," a children's operetta, with music,—full of charming tableaux and effects; A series of beautfully illustrated Ballads for the Young Folks, beginning with the Christmas number; A Special Budget of Fairy Stories by Frank R. Stockton—the first of which is in the November number; An Indian Story by "Bright eyes," the ponca Indian maiden; a splendid holiday story, "A Christmas with the Man in the Moon," by Washington Gladden. Open-air Papers, stories of sports, and games, will be continued, with all the popular departments.

Subscriptions beginning with the November issue will include "the wonderful Christmas number," of which the edition will be 5,000 in England and 100,000 in America. The price of this number, to be issued about November, will be 30 cents.

Regular price $3.00 a year; 25 cents a number. For sale, and subscriptions received, by all dealers, or the publishers, Scribner & Co., 743 Broadway, New York.

Speer's Port Grape Wine.

This article of American Wine is highly esteemed by the best physicians in this country. The following is a testimonial we saw from the New York Hospital. We publish it for the information of our readers:

New York, Nov. 14.

I am using Speer's Port Grape Wine and find it to be an excellent tonic and gentle stimulant, and as such I believe it preferable to the commercial Port and all other wines as it possesses tonic properties without the deleterious effect caused by their impurities. It is also very palatable, and this is a recommendation to many, especially females.

S. S. HARRIS, M. D., N. Y. Hospital.

This is an excellent article for family use, and for females. For sale by J. J. HARRIS. 45-2t

On the old road in Lower Merion township, Montgomery county, are several mile-stones on the back of which is carved the coat of arms of the Penn family. They are of Germantown stone, and were cut in Philadelphia and erected in 1682.

A World of Good.

One of the most popular medicines now before the American public, is Hop Bitters. You see it everywhere. People take it with good effect. It builds them up. It is not as pleasant to taste as some other Bitters as it is not a whiskey drink. It is more like the old fashioned boneset tea that has done a world of good. If you don't feel just right try Hop Bitters.—Nunda News. 45-2t

Just before visiting the menagerie, Johnny had a passage at arms with his young aunt who assisted at his toilet, and with whom he flew into a rage. Arrived at the menagerie, Johnny was immensely interested by a strange foreign animal with long, lithe body. 'What animal is that, mamma?' he asked. 'It is called an anteater, my son.' After a long silence: 'Mamma, can't we bring Aunt Mary here some day?'

Kidney-Wort Always Cures.

EAST WAKEFIELD DEPOT, MARCH 4.

MESSRS. WELLS, RICHARDSON, & Co.

Gentlemen—Permit me to say in favor of Kidney-Wort. My mother has been afflicted with Kidney Disease for a number of years Last Spring she was so bad as to necessitate her taking Spirits Nitre at least three times a day—had a most alarming pain in her side, also much numbness. After taking one box of Kidney-Wort the pain and numbness disappeared. Her appetite improved at once and she has not taken a drop of Spirits Nitre since. I advise all who need such a medicine to give it a trial.

MRS. W. H. PARKS.

'Why don't he come when the moon is full?' is the first line of a sentimental poem. We can only conceive two substantial reasons why he don't. The first is, that probably it is not his desire, and secondly, it is possible that he is in the same condition the moon is.

Sea-Horse.

No proprietor of a Sea-Horse has ever, to our knowledge, had any occasion for using Kendall's Spavin Cure, but it has been used on thousands of spavined horses with most wonderful success, and it is now being used with the very best of satisfaction for every kind of a blemish or lameness on beast or man. As it does not blister and is certain in its effects, it is becoming the most popular liniment ever used for horse or human flesh. Read the advertisement in another column.

WIDE AWAKE for 1881

$2.00 a Year, Postpaid.

IF the boys and girls of America could but see the piles of delightful manuscripts, and the beautiful drawings for them, waiting to be grouped into the twelve numbers of WIDE AWAKE for 1881, we are sure that during the next three months the subscription list of the magazine would be more than doubled. Out of many brilliant features we announce the following, leaving delightful surprises in store.

Perhaps the first in general interest will be the publishers having recently completed arrangements abroad with Mr. George MacDonald to write and send them the original manuscript of a serial story for older readers, which from its subject and character Americans will find of greater interest than any of his former books. This story, the title of which will be announced later, will be given complete during 1881 in Monthly Supplements, thus giving free to every subscriber one of Mr. MacDonald's longest and finest stories.

A New Story by Geo. MacDonald

Those who remember with delight that charming home story of the "Dogberry Bunch" will read with still greater delight a story of the Ohio Hill Country, by Mary Hartwell Catherwood. Those who have read this serial in manuscript pronounce it one of the most fascinating stories they ever read. It is as gay and sparkling as a wild mountain brook. Mr. Geo. F. Barnes will illustrate this story with thirty-six drawings.

Mrs. A. M. Diaz has written the Little Folks' own serial, and it will be very fresh and funny. At least one hundred and twenty illustrations will accompany it. Those famous twin boys, the Jimmy Johns, are prime actors in Polly's wonderful adventures.

POLLY COLOGNE.

For the older young folks there will be

The Story of Honor Bright,

by Maunus Merriweather, author of "A General Misunderstanding," and "Royal Lowrie's Last Year at St. Olaves." This new story is dedicated to the boys of a certain school, real live boys, who wrote to the author, challenging him to produce a story equal to the two just mentioned. In reponse "Honor Bright" has been written, far superior to either, in both interest and influence. In the name of the hero, Honor Bright, lies a great surprise. Mr. Walter Shirlaw, instructor at the Art Students' League, New York, will illustrate the story fully.

Several striking two-Part Stories will appear during the year: "King Philip's Head," by the Editor of the Boston Courier; "Tot, the Dwarf," by Margaret Eytinge, with eight drawings by George Foster, etc.

A New Feature, including Cash Prizes, for best original stories, drawings, puzzles, inventions, etc., will be introduced during 1881 (full particulars in January number.)

And after long consideration of what would best meet growing demands, the Editors have decided to add a Special Department for Boys (which the girls are also invited to enjoy), which will be

Newspaper News,

or what the boys (and girls too) wish to know and ought to know of what the great world is doing, saying and thinking. This department will be under the able charge of Edward Everett Hale, whose name alone is guarantee of its certain remarkable interest and practical value.

The publishers also have pleasure in announcing a New Cover, artistic and genuinely American in design and novel in color, which, with entire new type, will add largely to the attractiveness of this popular magazine. Subscribe now for this most BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS GIFT. Samples free. Address,

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER is a scientific combination of some of the most powerful restorative agents in the vegetable kingdom. It restores gray hair to its original color. It makes the scalp white and clean. It cures dandruff and humors, and falling-out of the hair. It furnishes the nutritive principle by which the hair is nourished and supported. It makes the hair moist, soft, glossy, and is unsurpassed as a hair dressing. It is the most economical preparation ever offered to the public, as its effects remain a long time, making only an occasional application necessary. It is recommended and used by eminent medical men, and officially endorsed by the State Assayer of Massachusetts. The popularity of Hall's Hair Renewer has increased with the test of many years, both in this country and in foreign lands, and it is now known and used in all the civilized countries of the world.

Van Dyke's SULPHUR SOAP

Is superior to all other soaps. It is combined with Sulphur in its pure, unadulterated state, which enters the pores of the skin, being absorbed into the blood through the minute capillaries, and thus acts upon the skin, whether it is healthy or in a diseased condition, both locally and constitutionally, thereby eliminating all impurities from the blood, and exciting the skin to healthy action. It produces a fineness, purity, and freshness of the complexion which is unequalled, and can be produced by no other means. No toilet, nursery or bath room is complete without it. It makes the skin pure, clear, white and healthy; is cleansing, deodorizing, disinfecting, soothing, healing and purifying; removes dandruff, chafing, ulcers, sores, eruptions, roughness and redness of the skin; relieves itching, burning and stinging of the skin, and irritation of biting and stinging insects; will relieve itching piles when nothing else will have any effect. Ask for VAN DYKE'S SULPHUR SOAP; insist upon it, and take no imitation. Sold by druggists. Aschenbach & Miller, proprietors, 301 Callowhill street, Philadelphia. 12-20-1y

Beecher on the Chinese Letter Forgery.

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher preached last week in Plymouth Church from Proverbs xxi., 1, and vii., 1:

A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches. . . A good name is better than precious ointment.

The discourse occupied more than an hour, and contained, in the latter part, a denunciation of the managers of the Democratic party for their attempt to blacken the character of General Garfield. Mr. Beecher said:

The value of a good name is just as eminent in regard to parties as it is to individuals, to firms, to corporations, to States and to nations. What, when you come to the very marrow of it, is the reason that the Democratic party has come to scorn in this land?—for I am going to talk plainly to-night. I don't ask what are the sources from which votes have been gathered; but why is it that, taking the country through, men of most moral feeling, most religion, most civilization, men most sound in business relations, and men who stand higher in manhood—what is the reason that they are steadily embodied and embattled against that party? It is because they have no confidence in its integrity. It is because it is rotten to the very centre and core; not every man that is in it, but the thing called an organized party, which in its recent manifesto before the work of election had begun, stultified itself by the amazing declaration that it renewed all its traditions and all its issues; that is to say, its subservience to slavery, its condoning secession, its refusing to help the land through the great struggle and for liberty, its obstruction to every step of reconstruction, its blantant and persistent folly in resisting all honesty in regard to currency and money matters — these things, so many black streams, don't come from anything but a black pool at headquarters and at head-waters. It is a party that has truckled to the baser relations and passions of men.

Why is it that the Republican party, after twenty years of power, has not lost it? Because, in spite of many bad men in it, in spite of mistakes, in spite of corruption engendered by long continuation in power, the people have this general impression: Its reputation is such that men believe it means liberty, civilization, power for the best elements in human society. That is its reputation, and it has gone into power again, or is on the eve of doing it, unles the State of New York is thrown out. [Laughter.] It has come into power again because the more intelligent portion of the country believes that that means the welfare of the high and of the low; of the black and of the white; of the emigrant and of the citizen. The Democratic party has got a bad name; and I don't know how it is going to get rid of it. Certainly not in the measures that have been taken will it be accomplished. In the conduct of this campaign we expected, on either side, a certain amount of moral friction; and I am not here to say that the Republican party has been without blemish. The conduct of the campaign has deloped certain elements of depravity that have never been surpassed, and very seldom equalled, in this country; and it is a part of purpose in preaching this sermon to see to it that it shall never happen again. I propose, as far as my testimony is concerned, as far as I can bring the Word of God to bear upon this community and the population at large, to stamp the conduct that has been taking place under the official sanction of the Democratic party with such odium that a man would sooner sleep with a rotten dead man than with that party.

A good and great man is a glory to a State. He may have faults which it may be fair to mention, though perhaps uncharitable and unnecessary; nevertheless, when he is raised to eminence, when a man is to be elected to the Presidency of these United States, his moral as well as his political efficiency is a matter of interest to every mother that is bringing up children. We can't send an uncertain man to that high position; for what the President is will determine largely what his Cabinet will be; what the public sentiment of the party will become. We cannot afford to put for four years a man in the Presidential chair who is not such a man as the Nation shall be proud of. By as much as a good name is a tower of strength to a man and the glory of the Nation over which he presides, by just so much is the iniquity of taking away a man's good name unjustly, foully. That there has been a most deliberate conspiracy carried out in all its parts with foresight, with malign and infamous intent to destroy the name of General Garfield. I have no more doubt than I have that I stand here, or that the devil goes to and fro seeking whom he may devour, up and down among men. I have watched the progress of it. I have seen the venomous thrusts that have been made at him—a man, I believe, as pure as any other man that walks the earth; as conscientious, as sensitive to everything that is pure and virtuous; a Christian man, a Christian teacher, a good father and husband and neighbor; a good man, whose whole long life has been the earning of a good reputation and a character that should rank him among the good men of the earth.

I am not speaking of the miserable scribblers that have sought to join his name in the transaction of money matters. There is not a man in the whole State of Ohio dying today that would not be proud to put his estate into the hands of James A. Garfield to take care of those whom he loved. Trust is unbounded in him; yet they tried to make him a miserable thief and liar, and to discrown him. They seem to think that a noble citizen, standing high in the estimation of the whole world, is lawful prey, and that they are to be credited with skill, with power and greatness, that know how to disrobe him and to finish his glory, which is the glory of the Nation. But of this last attempt, with this deliberate concoction of a low and venomous lie, brought forth by forgery and expedited by perjury, and that, too, by the ministration of the organized members of the great Democratic party, I think in the whole history of political transactions there has never been anything whose infamy was so deep, whose disgrace was so black, and on which history will set such a blazing seal as upon that whole transaction.

I can understand how zealous men may have been led into it; but one thing is certain, that the man who is covetous of his good name will see to it that he keeps out of company that may damage him. A man must not be in a committee where the rogues so preponderate that they may do infamous things that may come back on the whole committee. A man is known by the company he keeps; and no man can trust himself under such circumstance to the blight of public judgment (though he has been great—no matter how honest or truthful in his personal relations) that has been caught defiling the pure name of a great man. The instincts of a gentleman should keep a man from any haste in such a matter as that—the instincts of a gentleman. And if there comes to him one single moments doubt, that should breed hesitation and caution; and if doubt at last ripens into relative certainty, not the speediest horse that ever sped across the desert should be quicker than he should be to rush to the people and say, "I am mistaken." But if he hangs back sullenly and defends himself, and carries it through, and at the very last has no indignation at the affront put upon him, and put upon the good name of a good citizen, how shall we characterize such conduct as that? I is more than cruel. It is more than atrocious. It has in it an element of unspeakable and unutterable meanness. And when men take on themselves such a case as that; when men defile the reputation of the noblest, for any motives whatever; when they stand to it after the revelation is made, their case is hopeless.

I say these things with grief. I would not say them if the indignation of the Lord did not stir me to the very bottom and if I did not desire to have it known for generations to come that the men who undertook, by lies, by forgery and by persistence in them, to blight a fair fame, hat on that man should rest the indignation of the Lord and of the Nation, so that the voice of the people should be the voice of God come to judge such a man. It will come, it has come; and as when the thunder breaks in the summer among the mountains, its crash is caught up by this mountain and thrown to that, and to that, and goes echoing down upon the horizon; so down through the course of time the men that have conspired in this infamous thing will have the thunder of indignation still reverberating to the latest day.

Young men, there was a time when a God-given conscience should not lift you above the passionate judgment and party fury of the time. There never was a time when young men should not be warned that power doesn't come by treasure, and that propriety doesn't follow wickedness. I tell you manliness is profitable. I tell you there is no manliness without truth, fidelity, integrity, purity. These are real; and he that believes them does so at his own peril.

A Singular Asset.—'I am a peaceable man,' said the intruder, grasping his club with both his hands, 'but if you don't come down with $17.50 damages for mylacerated feelings, the bombardment will begin at once.'

The owner of the dog paid down the money, as he was afraid the other fellow might exasperate him if he hit him with a club of that size. The owner of the dog also said that he was sorry that the dog had bitten the intruder's son.

'Why, he ain't my son,' said the intruder.

'Whose son is he, then?' asked the astonished owner of the dog.

'He is the son of a friend of mine who owed me $17.50, but he is poor, and the only available assets he has are these dog-bites on his body, which he turned over to me for collection.'

'Well, I'll be blowed.'

'Oh, you needn't complain; you are getting off dog cheap. I ought to make you pay in advance for the next time that boy is going to be bit.'—Galveston News.

SUMMARY OF THE NEWS.

Two Men Killed for a Drink.

St. Louis, Nov. 16.—Four railroad men went into James Flannigan's saloon, No. 2,621 Broadway, about half past eleven last night, and ordered drinks, which were paid for. Shortly after more drinks were taken, and the party started to leave the saloon without paying for them, when Flannigan demanded his pay. A row ensued, in which Flannigan, drawing his revolver, shot Tobias Laughlin dead and sent a ball through the lungs of his brother, Daniel Laughlin. The dead body of Tobias was taken to the Morgue and his brother was sent to his boarding-house, No. 1,709 Broadway where he died this morning. Tobias Laughlin was an engineer on the Wabash railroad and had a wife and two children somewhere in Canada. Flannigan was arrested.

Hanlan Still Champion.

London, Nov. 16.—The sculling match between Edward Hanlan, of Toronto, and Edward Trickett, of Sydney, N. S. W., over the Thames championship course, from Putney to Mortlake, for the championship of the world, the Sportman's challenge cup and $2,000, came off yesterday and was won by Hanlan in his usual style. The race was a mere procession from the start to the finish. Hanlan rowed in splendid form. He stopped several times alloying Trickett to come up. Tremendous crowds witnessed the affair. The river was perfectly still, and the weather also favorable.

Murdered by a Burglar.

Harrisburg, Nov. 16.—Daniel Troutman, a farmer, seventy years old, residing near Uniontown, Dauphin county, was awakened last night by two burglars at his bedside. He fired at them and one of the burglars returned the fire. The shot struck Troutman in the breast and he fell at his wife's feet, saying his murderer was Henry Romberger and then immediately expired. The murderer has been arrested. Troutman leaves a wife and fourteen children.

Harrisburg, Nov. 17.—The revelations made to-day by Henry Rumberger, charged with, and in the Dauphin county jail for, the murder of Daniel Troutman, will doubtless lea to the arrest and trial of his accomplice. The accused yesterday intimated that he would make a clean breast of his connection with the Troutman tragedy, and this morning stated, in the presence of two persons, that he was in the plot to rob Troutman, but that his associate in crime, whose name he gave as Frank Rumberger, a relative, did the shooting which caused the old man's death. These developments were followed by an immed ate pursuit of the alleged accomplice, and his arrest is confidently predicted.

Boy Killed at Altoona.

Altoona, Nov. 16.—William Lumus, aged fifteen, who had made up his mind to go west, concluded to go to his home, which is in Mt. Union, Huntingdon county, and in walking down the track for the purpose of jumping on a freight train was run over and instantly killed, his head being cut off and his arm badly crushed.

A Railroad Train Disappearing in a Swamp.

Binghamton, Nov. 16.—The track of the Syracuse and Binghamton railroad runs through Tallman swamp, a mile south of Preble. A new track was laid recently west of the old one, and a few days ago a gravel train was run there for filling in and making embankments. At noon the train hands quit for dinner and left the work train standing on the west track. As they were returning they saw the west track and the train sinking out of sight in the morass. The ground seemed to be heaving under a subterranean force. In less than a minute six of the gravel dumps were buried out of sight. A pond of water near the track disappeared, the earth rising and filling it and the water appearing in a depression in another place. No one was injured.

Dreadful Holocaust.

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 17.—The dreadful news that the main hospital for insane was on fire was communicated by telephone to Mr. Dryer at Dr. James', at the temporary hospital here in the city, about half-past eight o'clock. Everybody was appalled at the prospect of five hundred patients being turned out of doors during such a terrible night, but disagreeable as was the prospect of going more than a mile across the bleak prairie and facing the cutting wind, our people responded promptly and nobly. Many made the trip on foot, but a large number of wagons, sleighs, and buggies were soon on the road. A wild rumor of the loss of life reached town and reports were very conflicting. In the course of an hour the sky in the direction of the hospital was lighted up. Dense volumes of smoke rose over the scene and were carried by the gale over the river. The probabilities were strong that the whole structure, costing over a half million of dollars, would be destroyed. Upon arriving at the scene of the conflagration the sight was grand. The whole northern part of the building, with its hundreds of windows, was one great flame. In the confusion it was difficult to learn anything definite. The fire originated in the northwest corner of the basement of the north wing, and about the same time, or soon after, there was fire in the basement of an adjoining section. There was no fire in that part of the building, and so far as is now known the origin of the fire is a profound mystery.

The number of lives lost by burning and freezing is estimated at from twenty to fifty. Loss on building $300,000. The scenes of the burning of the south wing of the hospital were heart rending in the extreme. So appalling a sight has rarely been witnessed and we trust may never be again. The patients in the annex wing were males and many of them refused to leave the building at all. They ran up and down the halls screaming and crying and acting like bedlamites. They were of course those who could not be coaxed nor forced out of the building and became the unhappy victims of the flames and suffocated in the pit of the flames.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—A dispatch from St. Paul, Minn., says: Congressman Strait, president of the board of trustees of the St. Peter Asylum, telegraphed at midnight that the number of the dead will not exceed ten. Another correspondent estimates the number at from ten to fifteen. The inmates are being returned to their homes and checked off. No names are given. A full list is promised soon.

An Arkansas Town Nearly Consumed.

Little Rock, Nov. 17.—About six o'clock yesterday evening a fire broke out in the northern part of Newport, on the Iron Mountain railroad. Under the influence of a high wind the flames rapidly spread until two thirds of the buildings in the town were destroyed. About two hundred families were rendered homeless, and the distress is very great. The loss is estimated at about two hundred thousand dollars.

The Official Vote of New York.

Albany, Nov. 18.—The State Canvassers met to-day and adjourned until to-morrow. The official returns from all the counties but New York give the Garfield electors 62,118 majority. New York is estimated at 41,376 majority for the Hancock electors, which makes Garfield's majority 20,842. The law requires that the returns shall be sent to the Secretary of the State by mail and duplicates by a messenger. No returns have been received by mail or messenger from New York, and messengers have not arrived from either Columbia, Dutchess, Ontario, Putnam, Steuben, Suffolk and Westchester counties, although the returns have reached the office by mail. The board will adjourn from day to day until the returns are received, but if they do not arrive at the end of the four days the canvass will proceed without them. The only counties from which protests have been received are Courtland, Lewis, Rockland and Schenectady.

A Whole Family Killed by Gas.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 18.—When Daniel Burr, a watchman in a mill here returned home this morning, he found his house tightly closed and climbing through the window was horrified to find the whole family lying senseless and a powerful ordor of gas from a base burner stove pervading the air. His three year old daughter was dead. His wife and eleven year old daughter were on the bed and the infant on the floor unconscious. A neighbor's daughter visiting them was also insensible, and a woman friend of the family was sitting at the foot of the bed in the same comatose condition. The last named may recover; the others will probably die.

Butter Made of Lard.

Chicago, Nov. 18.—The fact was developed yesterday that large quantities of a material which is called "butter," and sold as such on the market, is really made of lard by a peculiar process known only to a few. One establishment in this city has been doing a prosperous business for more than a year, and has a trade so extensive that shipments are made to England. No effort whatever is made at concealment. The manufacturer is frank about it, and says the compound is no more injurious than pork. A large number of restaurants are said to be using it as butter, and the report is that other manufactories are to be opened soon.

A Family Fight in New Jersey.

Middletown, Nov. 18.—The annual hog killing feast at the farm of Peter Moran yesterday was celebrated by the father, mother and their son Peter. Peter, who is twenty-three years old, became drunk. In a quarrel which ensued, the farmer beat his wife, who retaliated by seizing an axe and striking him a blow on the skull. Peter, fearing his mother's murderous intentions, took the axe away and beat her until she was rendered insensible. The son and mother were lodged in jail today. The injuries of the father are of a serious nature.

A Train Wrecked by a Cow.

Cincinnati, Nov. 18.—The passenger train on the Louisville short line railroap, due at 8 o'clock last night, when near Legrange, Ky., struck a cow, which threw off the track the two rear coaches. They were completely wrecked, although none of the passengers were seriously injured. Trains were delayed ten hours.

Women who Want to Vote.

Poughkeepsie, Nov. 18.—Four women attempted to register their names here to-day and three of them succeeded. The fourth one was denied permission and she will probably go before Justice Barnard and make it a test case. The registration is for the charter election to take place December 7.

Marriage of Miss Cameron.

Harrisburg, Nov. 18.—The marriage of Senator J. Donald Cameron's daughter Elizabeth to William H. Bradley, the son of Justice Bradley of the United States Supreme Court, was solemnized here yesterday by Dr. Cattell of Lafayette College, Easton. Many distinguished persons were present.

An Insane Murderer.

Freehold, N. J., Nov. 18.—An application to admit to bail William Grover, the 50-year old husband who shot his 12-year old wife, at Eatontown, last Thursday, has been denied, the girl not yet being considered out of danger. Grover will probably be committed to an insane asylum.

The Result in California.

San Francisco, Nov. 17.—Full official returns of the State show that Henry Edgarton, the Republican elector, received 507 more than Judge Terry, the lowest on the Democratic ticket, and is elected. The other Democratic electors have majorities ranging from 87 to 143.

What the Hall Boy Says.

That cheap boarders give the most trouble.

That the pompous boarder is almost always very impecunious.

That bachelors give much more trouble than married men in hotels.

That travelers who give away old clothes are now few and far between.

That the best clerks are those who have the least to say of themselves.

That the average hotel detective is not worth his salt, much less his wages.

That the fellow to be watched is he who wants a big check cashed immediately upon arrival.

That Boston families always want a room where the carpets harmonize with the furniture.

That very few hotels keep up the reading rooms in the style which patrons have reason to expect.

That female boarders who laugh and chat with the servants are the kind who purloin soap and towels.

That hall boys come into possession of a great many secrets in the course of their varied hotel experience.

That country people's amusement is ringing the electric bell and asking a variety of ridiculous questions.

That as a rule the toothpick stealers are not boarders, but men who enter the hotel ostensibly to inquire for friends.—Hotel Mail.

An Accident.—Human nature is a curious study. The other night at the Union depot one of the depot hands, while sweeping out, thought he saw a twenty-five cent bit under one of the benches. He went down on his knees immediately and covered the piece with his hand. While he was in this position a well-dressed lady tapped him on the shoulder and said:

'I just dropped that.'

'What is it, madam?' was the gentlemanly interrogatory.

'I think it is a quarter.'

He placed it, without further parleying, in her hand, and she, tightly holding it, went away. What was her dismay to discover that it was a peppermint lozenger.—New Haven Register.

Humbugged Again

I saw so much said about the merits of Hop Bitters, and my wife who was always doctoring, and never well, teased me so urgently to get her some, I concluded to be humbugged again; and I am glad I did, for in less than two months use of the Bitters my wife was cured and she has remained so for eighteen months since. I like such humbugging.—H. T., St Paul.—Pioneer Press. 45-2t

Hancock and the Party Song.

BY G. PASSMORE.

I am a defeated candidate
Of Democratic rules;
Doomed to walk the river bank
With all the party's fools.

We introduced the tariff plank
Along Ohio's river bank;
Local as it seemed to be,
It was the means of beating me.

Hampton, in his speech so great,
Pledged a solid one thirty-eight;
These were words all uttered vain—
Republicans now are in again.

Now, like Tilden, I must live,
Crowned with all honor defeat can give;
Could I like Horace Greely die,
I might with martyred heroes lie.

But our party; oh, oh; the good old party we have trusted,
Surely now is almost busted.
Who, oh, who, has struck the fatal blow,
That reduced our LITTLE majority so;
Something is wrong, we surely know,
Else Republican roosters would not crow.
Two little dodges we did confine—
Look at this little 329.
Another grand and fatal mistake
Was that 138.
Our last little trick so mean and thin
Was the forged letter to Morey of Lynn.
There never existed a man by that name;
Philp shuckled the party and blackened his fame.
"A tariff for revenue only"
Was quoted in papers so lonely.
Hard did we try the reason to explain
To all the good people who fused up in Maine.
Party records of course are strong,
Yet why did we forsake the right and follow after wrong.
Fatal as our doom may be,
Party defeated as well as me.

Come, oh, come, the great boat awaits
For all our defeated candidates.
Hancock we our leader make
And English honored ship's first-mate

Coffee pots are now for sale,
For this boat that sets a-sail;
Wallace of course will be on hand
To guard the "floppers" of his band.

It grieves my heart to see you go,
You "floppers" surely see it so;
Once honored with the nations great,
You see your fate, but, alas, too late.

Some Items in Farm Economy.

The arrangement in buildings and the division of the farm into fields depend so much upon the character of the farm, the kind of farming, individual taste, etc., that it is out of the question to have a fixed plan that is the best one for all farms of any given size. There are certain general principles which should serve as a foundation for the arrangement, but the details must necessarily vary greatly. For example, if possible the barns should be upon a rise of ground where a cellar can be built opening to the lower ground at the rear. The fields should be so arranged that there shall be as little fencing as possible, and so located that all the fields can be easily reached from the lane. A long field has considerable advantage over one of the same area that is square—in the longer "bouts," and therefore less time spent in turning, plowing, harrowing, sowing, harvesting, etc. A pasture close to the stables is always handy, and other things being equal, the orchard should not be put at the rear of the farm, where the wood lot had best be located. There is much labor to be saved in having every thing so placed—and this applies to the various details that seem trivial at first sight—that there will be no extra steps or turns in doing the every-day work of the farm. For example, many days' work can be saved by having a pump in a hundy corner of the barn-yard, where the stock from a number of yards may come to the troughs. If the matters of the farm are not already economically arranged, it would be well to make such changes of fences, buildings, etc., as to finally secure the desired end. By degress the thoughtful farmer will improve his farm until it approximates to a model and therefore an economical farm.

SELECTION OF BREEDING STOCK.—The art of breeding may be summed up in the one word, selection, or it may be expressed in the common rule of good breeding—"Always select the best." To be able to tell the best is the most difficult point in the breeding of farm stock. The successful breeder must have a clear idea of the qualities sought, and the quickest and best method by which such ends may be reached. He must necessariiy be keen of sight to observe the good and bad points, and the causes by which they have been brought about. His judgment must be of the best to suggest remedies for defects, and new methods for bringing out valuable characteristics. "He will prove himself the most successful breeder who can select with the most correct judgment." Edward Hammond—whose breeding in sheep has been so successful, once said, when asked what proportion of the rams bred by himself he would willingly use in his own flock, answered, "Not one in three hundred." This is but an instance of the care, skill, judgment, and, we may add, present sacrifice exercised by the true breeder. We have said that in profitable breeding the selection must be for a distinct and well defined purpose. The first principle in stock breeding was the selection of animals adapted to the circumstances of the given farm, its size, quality of food, etc. The ancients knew that the breeds of animals that had lived for a long period of time on a hard fare and a poor soil, would do better on moderate land than those who had the highest kinds of keeping. Animals are much like plants, as they do not thrive well if transplanted from a rich to a poor soil.—American Agriculturist for Nov. 1.

Blinkers.

Much has been said against blinkers, yet their use continues to a considerable extent. If the eyes of the horse, like those of men, were directed forward, blinking might prove uncomfortable but not injurious. The range of vision in the horse is much greater than in man; by limiting this range of vision and allowing it a forward direction only—which is not according to nature—the muscles of the eye become strained and their strength impaired. It is not reasonable to suppose that the timid, nervous horse, that starts at every unusual sight or sound, would be inspired with more confidence if allowed to see all there was to be seen, than if straining the eyes painfully to see objects terrible to him just back of the blinkers? The position a horse's head has to assume when feeding from a high rack is the most favorable for chaff or other hurtful matter from the hay to fall into the eyes. The most serious injury commonly arising from this cause is from the beards of grain. The sharp little hooks or prickles on these attach themselves to the eye in such a way that the water from the tear gland cannot wash out the beards; inflammation follows, and even the most judicious treatment cannot always save the eye.—New York Tribune.

Farm and Fireside.

It pays to sow salt and lime on ground which is wormy, especially the strawberry bed.

Providence never hides a smiling countenance from those who manure highly, cultivate often and seed liberally.

Nut Cake.—One and one-half cups sugar, one-half cup butter, three cups flour, one-half cup sweet milk, three eggs, three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one cup of hickory nuts, one teaspoonful vanilla.

Irish Potato Pie or Pudding.—One pound mashed potato, rubbed through collander; half pound butter—cream with the sugar; six eggs, whites and yelks separately; one lemon squeezed into the potato while hot; one teaspoon nutmeg, same of mace; two cups white sugar. Mix as sweet potato pudding; bake in open shells of paste. To be eaten cold.

Green Tomato Pickles.—Slice one peck of tomatoes into a jar and sprinkle a little salt over each layer; let them stand twenty-four hours, drain off the liquor, put the tomatoes into a kettle with a teaspoonful of each of the following spices: Ground ginger, allspice, cloves, mace, cinnamon, a teaspoonful of scraped horseradish, twelve small or three large red peppers, three onions, a cup full of brown sugar; cover all with vinegar; boil slowly for three hours.

GRAPE JELLY.—Grapes too coarse or acid for table use make good jelly; have them firm, sound and ripe. Pick from stem, wash in cold water, drain, put in stone jar, place in pot cold water, boil till skins are loose, remove skins, as they darken jelly and make slightly astringent; save all juice. Boil pulps once again, pour into bag, squeeze through; allow pound lump sugar to pint juice; mix, boil steadily, not too quickly, until it will jelly when tried on saucer. Put in small glasses which are first wet in cold water. Place over each a piece of paper dipped in brandy; tie closely and keep in cool place.

21 Numbers of Scribner's for $5.

The richly illustrated November number of Scribner's Monthly, the Decennial Issue, appears in a new cover, and begins the twenty-first volume. The increasing popularity of the magazine is strongly evidenced by recent sales. A year ago the monthly circulation was about 90,000 copies; during the past nine months it has ageraged 115, 000, while the first edition of the November issue is 125, 000.

The first part of the now famous serial by Eugene Schuyler, "The life of Peter the Great," was finished in October. With November begins Part 11., "Peter the Great as Ruler and Reformer," which will be an advance, in point of popular interest and wealth of illustration, upon the part already published. To enable readers to secure Part 1. the publishers make the following special offers to new subscribers after October the 20th who begin in the November number.

(1.) New subscribers may obtain, for $5.00 Scribner's Monthly for the coming year, and the previous nine numbers, February to October, 2880, which include Part 1. of "Peter the Great," Mrs Burnett's "Louisana," etc. In accepting this offer, twenty-one numbers will be had for $5.00.

(2.) They may obtain the previous twelve numbers of Scribner's elegantly bound in olive-green cloth (two volumes), containing Part 1. of Peter the Great, all of Cable's novel, "The Grandissimes," with the numbers named above, and a year's subscription for $7.50 (Regular price, $10.00.)

All book-sellers or news-dealers will take subscriptions and supply the numbers and volumes mentioned in the above special offers, without extra charge for postage or express; or the publishers Scribner & Co., 743 Broadway New-York, may be addressed direct. The regular price of Scribner's is $4.00 a year, 35 cents a numbeg.

A LECTURE ON THE NATURE, TREATMENT, and Radical Cure of Seminal Weakness, or Spermatorrhœa, induced by Self-Abuse, Involuntary Emissions, Impotency, Nervous Debility, and Impediments to Marriage generally; Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits; Mental and Physical Incapacity, &c.—By ROBERT J. CULVERWELL, M. D., author "Green Book," &c.

This world renowned author, in this admirable Lecture, clearly proves from his own experience that the awful consequences of Self-Abuse may be effectually removed without medicine, and without dangerous surgical operations, bougies, instruments, rings, or cordials; pointing out a mode of cure at once certain and effectual, by which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

☞ This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

ISAAC GUGGENHEIMER & Co.

—Nuts and confectionery in great variety at Sechler & Co.'s.

—Harrisburg will have a murder trial at the January court.

—It tried hard to snow Saturday but couldn't quite make it.

—A new crossing has been laid at Decatur alley on Howard street.

—Many of our citizens are "sufferig frob bad golds in their 'eds."

—The season of busted water pipes —the plumber's harvest time—approaches.

—Diphtheria seems to be on the increase in a number of the surrounding towns.

—The fight for the postoffice grows animated. Some ten or a dozen petitions are in circulation.

—Mr. Edward Pruner, one of Tyrone's solid men, spent the Sabbath with his relatives in this place.

—Get your spices, sugars and raisins for Thanksgiving pies, etc., at Sechler & Co.'s. Their's are the purest and best.

—Turkeys are wondering at the profuse display of shelled corn about the barnyard now-a-days. It wasn't always thus.

—The boys who play about the streets built a big bonfire on the Diamond Saturday to keep their fingers and ears warm.

—Mr. John T. Fowler, a prominent citizen of Fowler station, was in town on Saturday, and paid his respects to this office.

—Just received at this office a choice and very nobby line of ball programmes, all new designs. Call and examine stock.

—The handsome display in the shop windows about town, particularly in drygoods, are very attractive to the country girls.

—The shipments of coal over the Clearfield and Tyrone railroad last week amounted to 35,911 tons according to official report.

—John Uzzle, of Snow Shoe, brought down another lot of venison Monday—a fine buck and a doe. John must be quite a huntist.

—We have heard some inquiry of late as to the age of General Garfield. The President-elect was forty-nine years old on Friday last.

—The fight for the post office still goes on, and in the meantime smokers are rushing to Harry Green's for cigars, the best in the market.

—An interesting budget of Port Matilda news will be found in another column from the pen of our able correspondent at that place.

—Accidents from hunting have been few this season in this vicinity. Hunters have doubtless taken a lesson from the carelessness of others in the past.

—Why do girls walk four abreast on a six-foot pavement? asks one of our exchanges. Probably it's because there isn't room for five. Referred to the school girls of Bellefonte.

—Parties who go off into the mountains to hunt should call at Harry Green's and provide themselves with good cigars, before going. A good cigar is good company, oftentimes.

—Now is a good time to mend leaky roofs. A snow drift on a roof full of cracks makes things mighty uncomfortable sometimes, especially to those who live in a one-story house.

—The Tyrone papers speak of the paper mill at that place as being a "mammoth concern." That sounds a trifle airy, but it's all rtght. We wish Bellefonte had a few such "monster" affairs.

—The fellows about town who lost hats at the recent election invent all sorts of excuses to avoid payment. Those who object to paying bets when beaten shouldn't bet. That's the safest plan.

—Why can't Huntington have a course of lectures this winter?—[Globe. Probably because, like here in Bellefonte, lectures are not appreciated. Variety and minstrel shows have the inside track.

—If you would enjoy your Thanksgiving dinner, buy your cooking material from Sechler & Co. and get the best. All goods purchased at this store will be found fresh and genuine. Don't forget this, farmers, when you come in to buy groceries.

Wedding Chimes.

An event which had furnished a topic for much conversation in fashionable circles hereabouts transpired at the Episcopal church Wednesday night—the marriage of Mr. E. B. Greenough, of Sunbury, to Miss Elizabeth Hewitt, sister of Rev. John Hewitt, of this place.

Our knowledge concerning the standing and antecedents of the contracting parties is limited, and we shall therefore not attempt to give an extended notice.

The groom is a wealthy and rising young attorney of Sunbury, of a high social standing in the community, but is, we believe, a comparative stranger in this place, having visited Bellefonte but few times in the past. The bride, formerly of Sunbury, but who has of late resided with her brother in this place, is a very unassuming yet highly accomplished young lady, and during her sojourn in the "city of the beautiful fountain" has won many admiring friends who will wish her every success and happiness in the years to come.

The doors of the church were thrown open to the public, and long before the bridal party made its appearance the building was crowded with spectators eager to get a glimpse of the bride and groom and to witness the beautiful and impressive marriage ceremonies of the Episcopal church. At half-past seven the bridal party arrived at the church and advanced slowly through the main aisle to the chancel, the choir meanwhile executing a selection appropriate to the occasion. Rev. Hewitt, rector of the church, was the officiating clergyman. Rev. Dr. Hopkins, of Williamsport, a venerable and pleasant-looking gentleman, presented the bride, and Delancy Walker, Esq., of Philadelphia, acted in the capacity of best man.

Mr. Samuel Reay, of Pittsburgh, Dr. T. L. Harvey, of Jersey City, C. F. Montgomery and J. H. Lingle, of this place, officiated as ushers, and performed their pleasant duties well.

The happy pair departed on the 8:43 express for Philadelphia, after receiving many hearty congratulations and good wishes.

—The streets in the business part of the town presented a lively appearance on Saturday. Farmers, with their wives and daughters, were in town in large numbers, and while the former was disposing of his grain and other produce, examining farm machinery and attending to other business, the latter visited the stores and shops, laying in a stock of clothing for the winter months and groceries for Thanksgiving dinners. Judging from the number of teams hitched before their places of business the merchants all did a brisk trade.

—The Huntingdon Globe discourseth thusly of the candidate bleeder: The occupation of the voter who has been bleeding candidates for a living is gone, and now he will either have to steal, beg or work. Never, to our knowledge, has there been such a systematic and shameful imposition on gentlemen so unfortunate as to be candidates for office as there was this year. Such a state of affairs is greatly to be deplored by men of all parties.

—Peter Herdic has at last succeeded in getting his coaches to running. They have already become popular in Philadelphia, where one or two lines have been established. A line of these coaches to run between Altoona and Hollidaysburg is talked of, and in order to keep up with the times we may as well begin to agitate the project of putting on a line to run from Bellefonte to Milesburg. How does it strike you, anyhow?

—Passengers on the B. E. V. railroad, who have occasion to wait in the depot at this place for the arrival of trains, complain of being greatly annoyed by small boys who congregate there in the evening and make use of indecent language, besides indulging in various gymnastic movements more or less annoying. The depot master should look into the matter.

—There were only five or six wagons in market on Saturday and very few buyers, the cold weather probably preventing many from venturing out. One or two wagons brought in chickens for the Thanksgiving trade, but turkeys were not so plenty. Beef veal and pork were offered in abundance. The supply of butter and eggs was limited and quickly disposed of.

—Edmund J. Hillibish, of Canton, Ohio, formerly of this place, was on October 12th married to one of Canton's fair daughters in the person of Miss Emma McCurdy. "Ned" has many friends in Bellefonte who will wish him lots of happiness in his matrimonial venture.

—"Shortberry strawcake" to the rear—cranberry tarts and mince pies have the floor now.

Inspection of Company B.

The inspection of Co. B. of this place, on Saturday afternoon, by Col. Burchfield of Altoona, passed off successfully, with one exception—the failure of the men to turn out. The company numbers fifty men, or thereabouts, but of this number only twenty-seven responded to Captain Mullen's order. Saturday is generally a busy day, and many of the men who belong to the company are so situated that they were unable to report in person, which probably account for the thin ranks. Col. Burchfield was accompanied by Captain Piper and Lieutenant Garden, both of Altoona. The Colonel is a thorough officer, never does things by halves, and gave the Fencibles a rigid inspection.

At the conclusion of the exercise in the armory the Company made a short parade and gave an exhibition drill in the Diamond. The men marched with their army overcoats on, looked warm and comfortable, and, considering the length of time the company has been organized, made a very good appearance.

In speaking of the inspection Colonel Burchfield remarked that the company needed more out-door drill; that there was an evident unsteadiness in making movements which more out-drill would overcome; that there was a perceptible sluggishness and indecision in the steps of the men which practice would remove. In handling pieces he thought there was room for improvement; the movements in general were not sufficiently quick and precise. He expressed much satisfaction with the clean and neat appearance of the men and uniforms, and was highly pleased with the excellent condition of the arms.

The Colone' complimented Captain Mullen and his Lieutenants on their efficiency, and also remarked that a finer body of manly and intelligent looking soldiers could not be found.

Taking everything into consideration the inspection was creditable, both to men and officers, and should and no doubt will urge them on to renewed efforts to overcome the defects pointed out by the inspecting officer.

In a Fret about the Car-works.

The MORNING NEWS said that in case of Garfield's election the car-works in Bellefonte would start business immediately. Now it says nothing will be done there for three months yet. Its last statement is nearer the truth than the first one.—Watchman.

The Watchman attempts to mislead. We never expressed any such views in relation to the car-works as are attributed to us in the above paragraph. The NEWS simply published a remark made in connection with the car-works by one of our citizens, and he a Democrat and an ex-Congressman. Now, then, if the Watchman feels mad because the shops didn't start up before the returns were all in, why don't it tackle the member of its party who had the manliness and independence to assert that manufactories were more likely to spring up and prosper under a Republican than a Democratic administration? However, we are of the opinion that the car-works will be put in operation just as soon as the necessary arrangements can be made, and there is no occasion for the Watchman to fuss and worry about it.—Morning News.

—The late Baron Ricasoli was a man of great endurance and industry, working all day long until midnight at whatever he had to do. He slept little and ate little. "I have seen him day after day," says one of his friends, "when he was in Rome during the sessions of Parliament. He used to go to a little trattoria near the Pantheon for his dinner. This dinner was a soup, and what is called the 'alesso con contorno'—boiled soup, meat with a vegetable, which was usually potato, a piece of dry bread and a glass of water. That was all."

If the Baron had been a resident of Bellefonte or the county he would have purchased his groceries of Sechler & Co., because he never bought an inferior article, and as Sechler keeps none but the highest quality of goods. No matter what you want in the grocery line you will find it at Sechler's, pure and fresh and cheap.

—Those who are attending Court this week should not return home without visiting Sechler & Co.'s mammoth grocery store. It is one of the sights of Bellefonte. After you have made a tour of the establishment you should not neglect to purchase a supply of the excellent groceries you will see displayed. You cannot get them as pure and fresh anywhere else in the county.

—The publication of the Tyrone Democrat has ceased; or, rather, it ceased at the time of the big fire and has never been resumed.

A Public Benefit in Prospect.

It is well known by the members of the Centre County Sabbath-school Association and its friends that several attempts have been made the past few years to secure the services of Rev. John H. Vincent, D. D., of New York, at one of the association annual conventions. The public generally will be gratified to know that this eminent educator and lecturer is now engaged for special services in behalf of the Young Men's Christian Association and the County Sabbath-school Association. On Thursday evening, December 16th, the Doctor's most popular lecture on "That Boy" will be given under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. On the following day, Friday, December 17, delegates from the one hundred and seventy Sunday-schools in Centre county will have an opportunity to receive the benefit of Dr. Vincent's matured experience and most valuable instructions on subjects of vital importance to all. Further announcement will soon to be made.

Why Beck is Happy.

Our friend Beck, the tonsorial artist, received a bit of news on Friday that made him feel remarkably happy. He is the possessor of a violin which was manufactured in Germany, and desiring to ascertain its true merits he forwarded it several weeks ago to Mr. Frank Dale, (a relative of Clement and Alfred Dale, of this place), who is attending Dana's musical institute at Warren, Ohio. The violin was submitted to some of the professors of the institute and pronounced a superior instrument and valuable to the owner. Of course this intelligence was very gratifying to Mr. Beck, and nothing, not even a gold mine, would induce him to part with his fiddle now.

From the letter we learn that Mr. Dale is progressing rapidly in his studies, and his friends need not be surprised if he returns in a few months a full-fledged violinist.

—Go to the Bee Hive for all kinds of dry goods.

—If you want a new carpet, see the stock at the Bee Hive before purchasing. It will pay you.

—The man who writes about the "beautiful snow" hasn't been heard of yet in this vicinity. He is neglecting a very important duty.

—The Ward House at Tyrone caught fire about ten o'clock Sunday morning, but was extinguished before the flames had time to do much damage.

—Mr. J. H. Crissman, who is at present located in Philipsburg, was in town over Sunday. He says business is booming on his side of the mountains

—A woman who goes to church to show her sacque is sacque religious.—[Ex. And she who goes to display her hat desires to make herself hatractive.

—We visited Bauland & Newman's Bee Hive yesterday on business and found them busy as bees, with their store full of customers. This is a one price cash store, and goods are sold at bottom prices.

—Harry L. Woods, of Altoona, picked up a murderous looking dagger on a street corner in that city on Wednesday night. He offers to give it up to the owner provided he proves property and tells how blood came on the blade. It may furnish a clue to a murder.

—"What does it mean?" inquires the Watchman. Thunder and Mars, haven't you found out yet? It means that the intelligent masses of these United States want no part of the Democratic party and concluded to sit down on it again. That's the way it looks to us.

—A little girl named Retta McDonald, of Huntingdon, aged 10 years, was instantly killed by the accidental discharge of a navy revolver on Wednesday. She knocked the weapon from a shelf in searching for a pencil when it exploded, the charge entering her breast.

—Cane and Beech are the names of a couple recently spliced in Milwaukee, the lady being six feet four. The head of the house will have to keep pretty well sprucedup or she'll be apt to make the fir fly. 'Elms the kind to do it.—[Ex. Oak come, now; ewe don't suppose she cares to gain that kind of poplar-ity, do you? We o-pine not.

—Another mass of stone and mortar was dislodged from the tower of the Presbyterian church Wednesday. It was the intention of the workmen to remove the masonry by piecemeal, but before they had proceeded far the balance of the loose material became detached and went down with a crash, demolishing part of the scaffolding around the tower. Luckily no one was injured by the falling debris.

Port Matilda Locals.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Mr. S. S. Miles, late of our town, but now of Philipsburg, paid us a visit on Wednesday.

Mr. A. B. Steele, who travels in the interest of the Bellefonte Republican, showed his bright countenance here on Wednesday.

Superintendent Myer is making his annual visit to the schools of Centre county, and called upon our schools to-day. The professor has instituted a new method of examination of schools, which we think will be greatly beneficial to the educational interests of our county.

Mr. John Way, who taught the grammar school for a few days, has resigned, and Miss Conrad, of Warriorsmark, is teaching the school.

About eight of the brave hunters of our town will depart on Monday to capture some of the wild denizens of the forest.

Rev. James R. King is conducting a series of revival meetings two miles below this place.

Mr. Jacob Woodring and lady are making an extended trip through the West. They expect to visit Missouri, Kansas and Iowa before they return home. Mr. W. voted for Garfield and Arthur just before he took his departure.

Hancock is not the only man that was disappointed by defeat. We presume if the United States could be scoured we could find at least one Democrat who would have taken a postoffice if it had been forced upon him.

Mr. A. P. Richards is lying seriously ill about two miles above this place.

MARRIED.

O'NEIL—BENNETT.—At Martha furnace, on Thursday, Nov. 18, 1880, by Rev. J. R. King, Mr. John A. O'Neil, of Mount Nebo, Lancaster county, to Miss Nora M. Bennett, of Martha furnace. We would just intimate that the above marriage supersedes or eclipses the Bradley Cameron wedding, inasmuch as it was consummated by a King.

OVER THE RIVER.

Mrs. Rhoads, aged about 78 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walker, on Monday, and was buried on Wednesday. Mother Rhoads has been sorely afflicted for some time, but death has released her of her sufferings. The young, the middle-aged and the aged have received the messenger of death in our village in the past three weeks.

THE "MORNING NEWS."

We deem it proper to give a word of commendation to this spicy little sheet which, though only a few months' old, is prized by many readers. The NEWS did us great service during the campaign, bringing us the election news two hours earlier than any other morning paper. The Press started a special train from Philadelphia to Harrisburg, in order to get the news in ahead of all other papers while we got the news just as early as the Harrisburgers from our little MORNING NEWS. Many of our friends were under the impression that the NEWS was only printed during the election, but that error has been corrected, as the paper is growing more interesting and number of subscribers increasing day by day, and I am glad to say that quite a roll of them now come to our little village.

A. R. C.

November Court.

November term of court convened Monday at 10 o'clock a. m., Judge Orvis on the bench.

W. S. Montgomery, of this place, was appointed foreman of the grand jury.

The attention of the court was mostly taken up with the presentation of motions and petitions and receiving the reports of the constables of the different townships; but no business of importance, other than characterizes opening day, was transacted.

A number of bills are under consideration, but no returns have as yet been made.

Court adjourned till 9 a. m. Tuesday.

—The New York Observer is an interesting and valuable family paper. We can recommend it to our readers, who wish to take a New York paper, as pure and safe. The publishers have this year issued a volume of Irenaeus letters, with a fine portrait of the author, which they offer to old subscribers. Any one can get the terms by sending to the New York Observer, New York.

—Bauland & Newman, at the Bee Hive, have just received a large stock of new goods. They have now the largest and best selected stock in town. Call and see them; attentive clerks are always ready to show their goods.

—Mr. Frank Steinkeckler, formerly of this place but now a resident of Kansas, returned on Saturday to spend the holidays. Frank looks well, and his numerous friends hereabouts were glad to see him.

A Bad Day to Hang.

The newspapers of Lycoming county are discussing the unfortunate day—Thursday, January 6—selected by Governor Hoyt for the execution of Catharine Miller and George Smith. The Jersey Shore Herald says:

"The delay of Governor Hoyt to execute these papers has relieved Sheriff Bastian of performing this unpleasant duty, and placed the trying task upon the shoulders of Col. Samuel Wilson, the Sheriff-elect of Lycoming county, who will enter upon the duties of his office on Monday, January 3, just three days previous to the execution. Considerable talk has been caused by this unfortunate affair, and many express the belief that the Governor, when informed of the peculiar circumstances of the case, will stay the time of execution a few weeks longer."

The Gazette and Bulletin in speaking of the case prudently remarks:

"Governor Hoyt was rather unfortunate in the time he selected for the execution of Catharine Miller and Smith. Court will commence on the 3d of January, and will be fairly under way by Thursday, the time fixed for the execution. Then, again, Sheriff Wilson, who goes into office on the 3d, will only have three days in which to prepare for the performance of what must prove to him a very unpleasant duty. In the first place, court week is not an appropriate time for a dual hanging; and secondly, the new Sheriff should have more than three days in which to prepare for it. These two facts alone are sufficient to cause a respite of a month or two, and it is very likely that they will be carefully considered by his excellency.'

We can easily imagine the feelings of the new Sheriff in regard to the matter. The vocation of the hangman is not pleasant at best, even after having become accustomed to it by repeated executions, and for a man who has never committed a more terrible deed than to wring the neck of a chicken, to mount the gallows and jerk a man into eternity requires considerable grit, and of a superior quality at that. The contrast between leaving a quiet, private life and hanging people up by the neck is very marked, and we don't wonder that the Sheriff calls for more time to prepare himself for his new departure.

—The Altoona Sun makes the startling announcement that a newspaper reporter of that city narrowly escaped having his overcoat burned from his back while standing beside a hot stove. There is nothing remarkable about the burning of the coat, but the wonder is, where did he get it? Newspaper men are not generally troubled with such luxuries.

—An exchange says the farmers along the Juniata will devote the larger portion of their land to tobacco culture next year, thinking it the most profitable crop they can raise. A number of farmers of Centre county raised good crops of the weed the past season.

—Ice formed on the mill dam Sunday night of sufficient thickness to bear the weight of the average small boy, and bright and early Monday morning a score or more of them were on hand with their skates.

—Altoona is talking of organizing a private detective force. From the number of robberies that have been committed there of late it would seem that such an organization is needed.

—Thanksgiving services will be held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms by the Association on Thursday morning at half-past nine. All are cordially invited to attend.
